

27th January, 2005
UNKNOWN ENERGY
Channeled by Sohrab Ardeshir

Crystalline Energy

Trance Channeling begins

Those of you who can observe energies, study these well.....This is not an entity. This is a collective scientific energy from the data banks of the Ashtaar. It is a more highly developed form of an energy you would see around your own earth computer. Therefore, I am an energy, and yet I am an entity of sorts. I am cognicent, I am aware: I think, therefore I am. It is time now for each one in this room to aid a certain segment of the Ashtaar command.

You have often been visited by the Commander, by scientists and other beings that comprise the Ashtaar. Just as you on Earth have every branch of profession, so do we. All we ask is that you make internal commitment to aid any one branch of your choice. Do not limit yourself, you may choose any aspect even if you feel you have no knowledge of the subject. You may help the medical fraternity, you may work with engineers, you maybe a computer friend, you may work with the arts. Choose any branch or you may simply wish to be a nurse maid for the young. Any branch that appeals to you. Spend in the next 24 earth hours contemplating where you would like to take us and make a firm mental intent. From that moment on you will continually work with us in the astral. We will guard you, guide you and serve you as you serve us. This invitation maybe extended to all members of your group, but for the others it is an invitation. For those within this room it is a strong request.

Much work is being done on your Mother planet. Portals are being activated. Energies are being passed through the crystal mother load at the bottom of your Bermuda triangle. These intense rays are activating the crystal mother who is changing the crystal ore structure on this Earth. Just as your DNA is being restructured, so are the crystals. Each crystal that is around your Earth is now being made a sentient being. They are now declared a new life form. Live life form. Kindly view them with love and respect. They require nurturing for their own growth and evolution. Simultaneously, energies from Shambhala are activating your mountain ranges around the planet. Hidden portals with in the ranges will slowly come to life. Your Earth explorers will start discovering hitherto unknown caves within which there will be either physical instruments or machinery necessary for your growth or else energy that they will unleash by simply opening the caves. Both these aspects will add to the movement of Mother Gaya.

Earthquakes like you have just witnessed will continue. Magma from the center is now being brought closer and closer to the Earth's surface as it houses within it knowledge that is required by Earth beings. The magma thought it is not a sentient being has an energy and a life dissimilar to yours. This life form is being brought to your knowledge gates.

Shortly, discovery of hitherto unknown deep sea creatures will also appear. These creatures are being brought closer to the Earth's surface to once again release not only energies but through sound vibrations in the form of their own special language which is required for a hook-up with extra-terrestrial beings who are in position around your planets. All of this and much more is in constant movement.

Kindly understand that as we obey universal law proceed with these structural changes, there is occasionally small mishaps not random accidents as you would term them but actual mishaps, when few elements react out of character. At times like this even those elements have to be respected by us. Their free-will choice has to be factored into the free-will choice of Mother Gaya.

At times like these Earth ruptures, tremors and shakes occur. Do not assume that all Earthquakes are mishaps. No indeed most of them are very deliberate but occasionally a random one will occur which is not in the blueprint of the Gaya. It is your job as light workers to understand and accept all movement without judgment.

While these activations are taking place there are many on your Earth planet whose vibrational level are not compatible with these surges of energy. For those who wish to stay secure, they are either cocooned by us in special energy field grids or they are moved to areas where their own vibrational patterns will not be affected.

However most Earth friends have chosen to dove-tail their own patterns with these shifts and willingly allow the energies to literally shake up their own bodies. That is why you have observed huge shifts in emotional levels of those around and or physical problems of disease, unrest. All of this is deliberately chosen by each individual and, as such, must be respected. It is, however, your job as light workers to be able to not only communicate this information to those who suffer, but to ease their suffering.

It is a fine line you tread, dear friends, but your vibrational level is now at a peak and you are wholly able to distinguish between what you should be doing and what you could be doing.

You may be permitted 5 questions.

EI: When you spoke about the crystals now being sentient beings is there now a different way we need to look after them? Cleansing, keep them I mean whatever some of our crystals are locked away in cupboards and are not in regular use. Could you guide us on that.

Sohrab: For those of you who will now specifically be mothers to their crystals and many will feel. You will feel an inner urge in general to expose your crystals to more air, sunlight and water. However there are some who will still remain in incubations and those must be allowed the womb like security of a darkened drawer. Do not now unnecessary expose all. Allow your own intuition to guide you . As you tend your crystals you will start hearing them speak. Yes, you will. They will speak to you in a language that you have not yet discovered. Yes child, we speak to you specifically (To 'Kau') as you will be one who will guide many others in the comprehension of the crystal language.

You will be reached through an inner vibration. A clarity of light within which is different to the other energies you normally access. You will be made aware that this signature specifically refers to the crystal family. Please help others understand this.

Any further questions?

Dpk: How can we help those who are not feeling well?

Sohrab: Start with those in your own vicinity, those connected to you, emotionally and or physically. Use your own powers to scan them. First distinguish whether the shifts that they are undergoing are indeed because of high levels of energy being passed through your Earth or whether this is a natural process they are going through at this given moment of now.

Once you have made that distinction treat them accordingly. Pass on information that you intuitively know they are ready to receive, but no more. Help them get in touch with themselves. Listen to the language of the crystalline world that is awakening around you. Much guidance and healing will come from this new life form on your planet. Understand that this new life form is simply new on this planet.

The crystalline families have existed throughout the galaxies and the universes for many eons as sentient beings. They are simply reawakening themselves on your planet. Then use all the tools at your disposal which have been given to you over years to work on and with your friends, your family, your patients. Above all open your self to guidance. There is more guidance at this given moment of now then there has been for many eons on this planet. It is the time to absorb and disseminate universal knowledge.

EI: Are all crystals reawakening? Even in the jewelry that people wear and if that is so what happens with the wearer who is ignorant of this and will there be a conflict of vibrations of that of the wearer and the crystal as sentient beings?

Sohrab: No, not every crystal will be awake. But there will always be an inner connection between the awakened ones and humans and animals and locations where crystals awaken. So if to use your own example, a certain stone that you are wearing awakens, it is because it has the full permission of your higher soul, which has worked in a dovetailing manner with that particular crystal so that an exchange of energy is maintained thus. It must be symbiotic.

The crystal will never awaken for its own pleasure or growth. It will always awaken to a level that is necessary by those around it. Many crystals, dear friends, will awaken in the middle of what you term unoccupied forests, mountains, deserts. And that is because the energies of that area also need a certain shake up to move them to a new vibrational level.

Yzd: Could this be the reason why two of my crystals in pendants have popped out?

Sohrab: From now on start welcoming your crystals. In their unawakened state they often mistake ignorance for lack of love. If you welcome them with your heart, those that are needed for you will awaken to full radiant intensity and the others will either shatter on the way or remain dormant.

You have not yet the ability to distinguish which are the ones that will (inaudible) So for the present till you and your friend atune yourself to this new life form on your planet it is best to pass love, light, understanding and nurturing to all in your vicinity. Continue to do so unless you are urged not to. Now do not hang onto them if you are being urged to release them. Also heed their voices. They may urge you to pass them onto others around you. Release them with love they do not belong to you.

Dh: Can you tell us a bit about the inactivity and lethargy that some of us are feeling after the changes and what exactly they mean and why its happening?

Sohrab: Friend we will speak of those, but first we urge you to visit your friend the crystal healer who will work upon parts of your body that require assistance. Kindly go to her. Certain areas in the torso need crystalline work and she will lay the appropriate crystal friends on you. Do not be alarmed these are the earth's vibrational changes. They do not refer to any physical ailments.

Dh: I will do that but I am not sure who you are referring to talk to.

El: 'Rox'.

Sil: Sir, if we have a broken crystal should we throw it away?

Sohrab: Your body in general is taking you into a state of dormancy to allow a faster influx of vibrations, to be input in a shorter period of time, it is as simple as that. For those who are experiencing long periods of sleep, fatigue. It is simply that their own higher souls have chosen for speedier influx of these new energies. They are most readily accepted into the physical when you are dormant. It does not make those any superior to the others. It is simply that they have chosen for their own life mission, a faster input. So allow it.

Dh: Thank you

Sil: Sir, if we have a broken crystal should we throw it away?

Sohrab: Dear friend, if you break a leg should we bury you? Gone are now those antiquated notions of the past. That was a small joke.(laughter)

Sil: I understand that Sir.

Sohrab: It was appropriate in the past, to return to the soil or the water crystals that were broken as at that given moment of now the energies have been released from those crystals and they were in effect, ineffectual. Crystalline energies have also evolved as human energies. Now even cracked crystals with the appropriate care can heal themselves. Even cracked or broken crystals can be effective in small parts. It is best from now onwards to be guided by your own intuition. Not another's but your own.

When the crystal belongs to you allow only your own intuition to guide you. And yes, you still may be guided to bury a broken crystal, in which case you must do so. When the crystal is indicating to you that a process of rejuvenation is required for which the soil or the water is the only appropriate place. So in the future sit with these crystals, speak to them, allow your own intuition to guide you.

Ana: I am finding a little difficulty with this... because technically all crystals are broken when it comes to us. And we have been using crystals way before today so haven't the energies anyway been with the broken pieces we have been using? So if it breaks further how is it that much different?

Sohrab: My dear friend. You have only to look at your own race to answer this question. Are you not all shards of the original spark?

Ana: I agree

Sohrab: ..and yet even for all these fragments have not some fragments have the right to continue existence and others have the right to return to the source. It is exactly the same. Allow them to speak for themselves. Yes, you are right. There is no such thing as a broken crystal. That is in your own perception but each fragment will speak to you differently. Each of them have their own growth curve. Their own corner stones and they too need rest periods between lifetimes.

El: This brings me to a question then. Does crystalline energy exist as stones or crystals only in or realm which means in your realm you have no physical crystals?

Sohrab: Crystalline energy exists throughout the universe. It is one of the many energies that co-exist. It exists in many, many manifestations. On your planet it has chosen to manifest the way you observe crystals and strengths. On many, many planets it manifests as energy structures which similarly mirror your crystal visuals. In yet other galaxies it manifests only as sound vibrations. The spirit remains the same. The entities are different.

Their soul structure differs slightly from yours. They have group souls. For example, there maybe a group soul for all crystals that exist within this city. They are not bound by your earthly areas. They have their own; that is simply an example. Hence when one small part of them is damaged, the group collective sends energy and healing to that small part, no matter where, in the soil or in the water.

El: Sir when you speak of the crystalline energy evolving, like our own, you are specifically referring to the crystalline energy in our realm.

Sohrab: No, no dear. Crystalline energy in your realm is evolving at this point in the way that has been demonstrated but as this evolves it feels all in the collective. As they evolve it pulls up this. Each one is co-dependent.
My time has come.

Sohrab disconnects with the energy

Sohrab: (Out of channeling) I ask for all in this room to please support Deepak.
(Deepak was given energy.)

---