The Sanjay Dutt issue How to be the Living Master The Bermuda Triangle

Trance Channeling begins

■ For the session that has been chosen by the group today, and this session is about How to be the Living Master.

What did you both (referring to two group members) do? You've tapped into the energies of the future, this coming meeting and you applied it to Self, allowing these issues to be provoked, which would eventually benefit the group. Do you see how you can tap into energies before an event has happened?

Let us take some more perspectives, and then we will examine the 'Sanjay Dutt' issue from different sides. His perspective, your perspectives and more important-what is it bringing up in you, and why. 'Gtk', what is your take on this?

Gtk: Well I uh...I met Sanjay Dutt a number of times, I met him last week, so my perspective is a little different, because I have his perspective to it...

■: ..and that is why you are being asked...

GTK: Uhm...it comes back to a couple of weeks ago, we spoke about justice at large, judgments and things like that...my basic take on it is the person he is today is not the person he was 14 years ago, there is no right or wrong, he did commit an act which was wrong by law...uh but my take on the entire thing is that any justice which takes place 14 years post is an act in itself is injustice, so whether it is 6 years or 4 years, whatever the judgment should have been, it should have happened at the time at which the act took place, but as well there is a larger understanding, that his soul has chosen this. There are probably lessons which he is meant to learn which he hasn't completely assimilated, and therefore have to go through it...and so I was left with no real opinion, on the judgment except for saying it is that it is meant to be...

■: Thank you...a very balanced perspective. A perspective that has acknowledged her own Masterhood, the Masterhood of the person, the victim, and even the masterhood of the situation. When you said that Sanjay Dutt is not the same person today he was 14 years ago—you are correct and he has now reached an internal level of spiritual evolution, where he can face this. It would not have been useful or appropriate to Self had the judgment come earlier. The judgment was awaiting his growth. He was not awaiting the judgment. (Laughing).

At the same time, it has awakened the people of India, to the delayed aspects of judgment in India, and there is now a collective consciousness, that this is not acceptable. The fact that the collective consciousness has now reached that this is not acceptable, means it must change. Do you see how issues dovetail? By the delay, which was required for his growth, so that he could deal with the issues and see it in a balanced perspective and even accept it to a certain degree, which has also served humanity.

In your case 'Na', your focus was, I know him, he is our kind of person, it could be me, and it has awakened in you a sense of justice and injustice that has both been received and given by you, over the years. Remember last time we spoke of your energy structure, where you choose to learn through 2 extremes, you rarely learn from the middle you learn from poverty and you learn from extravagance, you learn from riches, you learn from rags. Having understood this, ('Na' agreed and admitted to this) you have in some ways personalized this, as you are vibrating with the various attacks that have been received by you for your growth. And where you are vibrating are the areas where you are still being attacked and have not resolved the issue yet.

He will teach every single person in India, an aspect of themselves that they need to look at. What a great service he has offered to the entire country. 3 pages in the newspaper, perhaps 4, each one dealing with different aspects. Go back to your newspapers that you read this morning, pick up at random different aspects about the situation. There were aspects about the harshness of jail life, there were aspects, which dealt with, you can buy it if you have money, there were aspects that dealt with the hopelessness of an individual and what he experiences when justice is served on him and even if he is a top filmstar, he can do almost nothing--the victim.

Go back and look at your newspapers today, scan all the 4-5 pages that dealt with this information and see what resonates with you. Some of them will mean nothing, and there will be one point, one paragraph, one sentence that may upset you—Look at why it's upsetting you and how it fits with you. Are you perhaps playing the victim? And are you now at a point where you do not wish to be the victim and are yet trapped, in conditionings and patterns, which you refuse to change. Could that be what is vibrating within you?

You ('Gtk') dear friend, gave the most beautiful spiritual explanation of the situation, there is nothing we can say to you, to ask you to look at it further, as your perspective was completely expanded. Now look for Self and how you feel. Yours is a slightly different, in fact the opposite to these two. Yours is the aspect that you constantly embrace the large picture, but there are times when you have to look at the small picture. How it affects you. What's really happening within you? And it is the pain of the past that has correctly provoked you to expand and look at the bigger picture. We are asking you simply not to forget the smaller picture. It is the beautiful balance that you can strike between the large and small, that is true equilibrium, but you cannot forget either. Any other perspectives?

Pr: I was looking at it from a very non-judgmental point of view, I didn't want to see the news, I didn't want to react to it, either say it is right or wrong, but I also knew that somewhere or the other, in some form or the other, with some thoughts, in some life, I am also responsible, so I thanked him for bringing up whatever emotion it was, I said I'm sorry and I said I love you and forgive me, not to him so much, but for the energies that were being brought up, by various friends and their reactions and how they were looking at it and I was..... judgmental, fine there would be a time when I would have reacted to and had my own 2 bits to add to it. so that's what I learned from it.

■: Thank you. This was simply a declaration to Self for your own growth. It was acknowledgment to Self, of your expansion, and the beautiful part is, saying 'I would have had my own 2 bits to add--Is beautiful, as you may in the future you may still have your own 2 bits to add, and that would be fine, but now you would need to embrace those 2 bits as well, rather than making them, and then feeling spiritually guilty about having passed a judgment.... Dr Yogesh, let us have your perspective.

Dr Y: when I switch on...by the way I have not read newspapers since past 6 years; I haven't even seen the page. And....

■: Kindly explain why...

Dr Y: Ok...ever since I started knowing myself, I have realized that I do not want to experience a lot of negativity, and whenever I used to open newspaper, I would look for those good things, the Laxman joke... or that saying which comes in the middle, or probably the sports page, but even there when all the doping and all that started, I didn't feel like looking at those, even the Laxman joke didn't enthrall me so much after all...and then I stopped buying the newspaper itself, and I always wished that there was a newspaper that only reports good things that something good has happened-somebody has delivered a healthy baby or probably somebody has achieved this/that etc, the good things of life, rather than focusing on the negativity, focusing on the darkness. I always wanted to start a TV channel, which only reports the goodness of life .ok this falaana person has made a home which is so blessed and so nice or something like that or somebody has made a new dish which is... invented a new dish or something like that...ok, I wanted to have channel which has all such things, so...without any reason I stopped reading the newspaper...so when I switched on the television and saw that Sanjay Dutt has been... granted a sentence of 6 years—it really made no difference to me...I just realized that since he is a celebrity, he is being reported that last night he could not sleep and he is crying, since he is a celebrity, we are being told that he has to share his toilet with somebody else, what about the millions and thousands of people who were in the jail and we never came to know what happened to them, just because he is a celebrity, we want to know whom he is sharing the cell with, but at the same time I felt okay, fine that's his choice, if he wants to go to jail, if he wants to be in a cell which does not have a toilet and he has to share the toilet—it is his soul's choice, that's what I really felt, but I choose not to see this in my reality, so I switched off the TV.

👉 : Our friend here has made a very powerful choice in his life. A choice to consciously move away from what he sees and perceives as negativity, and to embrace only the light, and this must be respected as his personal choice. It is time however, friend, to now know that you are so big, and so vast in energy, that you are ready to embrace all aspects, without finding yourself dwelling on that or being affected by the negativity. This was a very vital part in your growth that was needed, to permit you energetically to expand and vibrate and reach the level you are now at., but for the next leap you have to embrace it all. You have to begin, of course if you choose, seeing these, acknowledging their existence in the newspapers and in life and yet, deriving the energy of those aspects and adding them to you.... A tough choice for you, but you will be surprised, it will not contaminate your energies, it will expand them. There are times, in your personal sessions, where you will be required to tap into those what you term negative, acidic energies and use them consciously through you, for the good and the light of the person in front. If you do not have access to them, how will you use them? Remember, acid can burn, but acid, but acid can also clean a dirty vessel. Acid is not bad; it is your choice of how you use it.

Dr Y: ...that's what I thought 6 years ago, now I really believe that there's no such thing as right and wrong. What I meant to say was that. I keep myself informed, I do see that headlines on the television, and my best source of information is the people I come in come into contact with...

👉 : Thank you, and this is a very healthy way, to absorb news and read your newspaper. Notice how often you get caught up in the emotional content of a story. A child has been brutally murdered, and molested. Another child has fallen down a well and is trapped there and cannot breathe and how you get emotionally caught and stuck on those aspects.

Whenever a news item of any form causes a very strong reaction in you, you need to instantly check why this is happening and what it means to you.

For example; the child falling down the well and being trapped may cause tremendous trauma, you need to examine instantly where you are feeling claustrophobic, which aspect of your life is trapping you, where you are down the well and can not move, from your perspective, that is what is triggering this overwhelming reaction, where it does not leave you.

At the same time news is intended to stir your energies. It is intended to give you a focus collectively, so you change things. As in the justice system...

Na: Do you think it will change...with the collective...

; Do you think it will change, that is more important? If you and you, and you, and you and you (pointing to the sitters) think it will change it will...if you don't it won't.

What is The Living Master...? You have all heard this term, you have all played with the concept, I am a Master, and some of you believe it for brief little intervals in your life and some of you don't. What is the living master?

The Living Master is simply a wonderful being, (pointing to the group members) you and you and you, who has chosen consciously, this 3rd dimensional existence and has chosen to grow, that is all. You have chosen to grow and develop and better yourself in your own perspective, and the more you attempt to do this, the more you are the living master. Does the living master not have issues? Of course...does the living master not make a mistake? Of course...but it is not in the making of the mistake, that you are not the Master, It is in the refusal to look into the issue and change it.... that is where you loose your Masterhood.

The more mistakes you make, the more issues that come up, are simply learning tools. You are blessed. You have chosen these tools. Imagine if you didn't have them, how would you grow, how would you be the Master? Let us now speak to a few friends, who wish to share aspects of their physical Masterhood with you...

In human form I was both impatient and arrogant. And yet my friends, my followers and my disciples worshiped me. Did this make me less of an expanded being? I expanded further when I acknowledged this aspect of Self, and for a while I embraced it. I embraced it fully; consciously chose to become more arrogant...more superior...and some people saw this, and some did not...but I was in such balance, with my arrogance and superiority, and my impatience that it slowly vanished. Those aspects taught me my Masterhood...

BLESSINGS FROM SATYA SAI BABA.

Sohrab changes energies

You would not believe me if I told you, that victimization, was my game, for most of my physical existence. Yes, I played the victim in the mis...guided interpretation of spirituality and victim hood. I thought that the Lord wished me to offer myself as a victim and I saw it as my service to the Divine. I learnt my lesson very very late, and I was able to release the victim hood instance before I exited physical life...instance...had I not released my victim hood... I would not have died...I too learnt...I was, I am and I will be a Master always....

BLESSINGS FROM JESUS THE CHRIST ...

Sohrab changes energies

“Don’t play my game” (caressing Na ’s cheek), it doesn’t belong to you...

“Don’t play my game, it doesn’t belong to you” (a group member)

“Don’t play my game, it doesn’t belong to you” (another group member)

“Don’t play my game, it doesn’t belong to you” (‘M’)

“Don’t play my game, it doesn’t belong to you” (‘K’) you don’t need it...

Mmmmm aah...I come from many past lifetimes of great confusion, trauma, and pain. Each time I chose to incarnate, I found myself through superiority, through anger, and through inward lack of authority, making more and more mistakes and pulling myself deeper into the mire. I chose this current lifetime to shatter all of this. I do not believe in karma. I do not believe in punishment. I do not believe in self-depravation, but my structure is so rigid, I have chosen to shatter all illusions. (In a stronger voice) I refuse to permit illusions to remain within my structure, and I will do this in any way I choose. Do not judge me...do not fear me...do not pity me...Use my power... to check your own life. I will survive...I will conquer...I will progress...I refuse to permit this aspect to...(Sohrab losing connection).... I refuse to permit this aspect to carry forward in any form... in my existence. I am confused about past, present, and future lives. I am confused about karma. I am confused... about existence beyond this one and yet I refuse to permit... myself...to be any less than I can be. I see strength in you and yet I see a lot of me in you. Have the courage, face it, fling caution to the winds, do what you must do for you.... I Am The Energies of Sanjay Dutt...

Welcome dear friends...for those of you who are wondering...how can he channel the energies of a living entity? The answer is simple...you can access the energies of any being, any friend, past present or future at any time, if you choose. This is no violation of the beingness of that entity, even if he is alive and is seemingly unaware. He offers that aspect of himself on a higher level, that he wishes to share, through another being. That is all, and his whole structure, is such that he has chosen to be a beacon, for all around him and it is through this light that shines...he has chosen to teach and affect lives of all around him. Most of this is done unconsciously...but he is aware to a certain degree, the ripples he is causing, and he is even aware how it is affecting others.

One aspect we caution you to look at is the aspect where you blankedly feel sorry for another being. It is a very common emotion, which you are all experiencing for the Sanjay. This is beyond those aspects that are personal issues. But when you randomly feel sorry for the underdog, it is not necessarily a healthy sign...Think about it, you will not say now. You may now question...

Na: There was another article, in the paper...baby was stabbed...26 wounds...and he survived...and in my soul, there was a "Wow!"...That was a very positive feeling for that particular child...and for Sanjay...I was feeling sorry...why/what was the difference?

■ In the case of the child, your anger reached a new level, because for those of you who are familiar with the term victimization and issues and philosophically it was meant to be, you rebelled saying...how can a small baby play the victim, he/she is not even fully developed enough to play that role consciously or unconsciously, it is the helplessness of that child, that you responded to.

This child has offered you a very very healthy service. You have all been provoked to first of all, to look at those aspects in Self where you do not even perceive that you are the victim... and yet you have chosen to play the victim game. It is that step further 'but I had no choice, I was molested on a dark night and I was raped, how could I have played the victim, I had no choice' you did have a choice, because if your energies been of a healthy contingent, that episode would not have been drawn by you on that dark and lonely night.

At the same time this provokes you to say, if I acknowledge this, I choose to change and I refuse to play the victim anymore. It is lesson level 2.

Na: Why did it come one after the other.... that because the news channel immediately shifted to that...where the mother had abandoned the child with 26 stab wounds...I want to know...flow into...

■: Any item in your newspaper simply mirrors the collective energy that is being released at this moment in time with your collective upgrade. You are aware of this upgrade, and you are aware that issues are now being provoked to rush up to the service to be resolved. There is a collective issue about abandonment that is now arising from all around. Check yourselves; abandonment is an extremely potent issue, in all your lives. Feelings of abandonment- -my mother didn't understand me...my father refused to listen to me...my husband or wife does not hear me, my children do not respond to me, nobody acknowledges who I am, I am left alone, my friends have moved away, etc etc...abandonment, and this collective consciousness arising to the surface needs at times an external catalyst to push it. That is when you will read a front-page article, on a child being thrown out of a car, or left at the doorstep, because that is quintessential visual of abandonment.

Na: In the dustbin...

■: and what does that say, not only am I abandoned, but I am not worth it, I am garbage...

Gtk: Now that Na's asked a question, and I was thinking about how I reacted, with Sanjay Dutt it was a little bit about injustice and with the baby it was a miracle, it was faith...so in a sense, where you felt hopeless, at the same time you knew that there was a larger force driving everything so it wasn't so much abandonment as it was 'wow' the baby managed to survive, so there is faith in something miraculous going on ■: Obviously, each person's perspective will be applicable to their moment of progress at that instant in time, and though you have had experience of abandonment issues, you have come to a group level where (inaudible) in this balanced manner. Wonderful...you have grown...

Sl: Can I say something please, that baby who was just born had no method by which it could stop its murder, how...what did that soul had to undergo at that young age to put up with this?

■: That soul underwent an experience that was essential for the growth in a concentrated manner...and the soul is also a great teaching soul who chose to undergo the same trauma in a public manner, this could have happened by in being brushed by the wayside and no one would have known and yet the soul permitted not only the personal trauma, but the event to be experienced by everyone for their individual growth. Look at how thirty people are growing right now from this incident and 30 more, and 30 more...but the incident would never have happened through that child, had the child not needed the experience.

We have explained this before, there are some souls, who come in incarnation on earth, and the whole experience is to experience death, when it arrives in a violent manner. This has been spoken of before. There were those on the trains, during the bomb blast, some in late middle age and yet their whole purpose of life was to experience being ripped apart for personal growth. Their choice. The rest of the life that they existed in, had minor aspects that they needed to offer others, not themselves, and for those few they lived most beautiful expanded lives, helping, affecting, touching all those around them, but not gaining anything at all till that instance of death, where they were ripped apart, and in that explosion they grew, and understood learnt what they had chosen. Are you then to condemn their manner of death? Not all who die in a violent manner have incarnated for this reason, but some do. Since you have raised this point, let us touch upon it again.

Violent death has many reasons. As has been explained, sometimes a soul simply wishes to finish an aspect of personal growth and karma in an instant and if the soul is impatient and does not wish to experience long drawn out trauma, over 10 years but says instead 'no, I wish to experience it in those instance before I am about to die' and in the process of violent death, it is the choice of the soul, are you going to take that away from him? You may have made that choice for Self, would it be right for another to take it away from you?

Some, who die in this violent manner, choose to do it, just to shake up their energies. When you are in physical form, your energies grow at a rate that is relatively steady. Of course there are rises and plateaus and rises, but it is not a very rapid burst. You may choose to upgrade your energies by an intense explosion, knowing full well that if you have chosen that act, with your structure, that instant of being detonated in a bomb or exploding in a plane, may raise you from level 2 to level 10 in an instant and you choose it.

Yet others have chosen this simply to understand the experience. Over lifetimes they may have derided others, who have had trauma, who have experienced aspects they cannot comprehend, and they have spent so much time behaving this way, they have chosen in expanded form, 'let me go through this, so I truly know from my soul, what it feels like to experience abject terror and leave my physical body and they choose it.

And there are yet others, who are scientifically inclined, who choose this purely out of science. You are aware of those disappearances of many human beings in the Bermuda Triangle. Ships where miraculously people seemed to have vaporized. Are you aware of this? Most of those beings were scientists on a high spiritual level who chose to further their knowledge, by shifting dimension and shifting form and how better to understand it than to experience it, so they shifted energies

To begin the work anew and for those there was no rest period for them when they passed over, they instantly moved into Spirit, and went into their spirit laboratories and began work joyously.

And there are yet others...who have chosen to be on hand gloriously expanded friends, to work in an instant from the other side with the souls who are about to suffer trauma. This again has been spoken of. Every single firefighter who died in the 9/11 explosions was a Master of a supreme caliber. There was not one, who died and had to be put into rest. Those souls exited the physical body and were on hand as firefighters in the spirit helping the other souls across. They simply said come, we have come with you, come, let us help you from this end...and they did it instantaneously and in full expansion. There was not one of those who died and had to move away and be put into spiritual rest...expanded souls each one who chose to be on hand and sacrificed this physical, just to extend this work

So next time you read about a violent death, think of these, and think of many others, that have not been mentioned today...

Na: I wanted to ask about the 'Philadelphia Experiment'?

■: Not today...not today...

R: is the Bermuda Triangle, in fact a portal... as we have read about to different dimensions...

■: A good question, every planetary body, every physical body, every apartment building, every structure has within it different areas that have different functions. Even in your physical bodies there are areas where you can release fecal matter, you can release phlegm, there are other areas where you ingest food and there are other areas, and there are other areas which are seemingly impermeable. Each one has a function, but if your anus or your mouth were to be removed, how would you function? Each one is as vital.

In a planetary body there has to be a certain surface area and a certain internal area that provides an energy channel in and out of it in a fluid manner. Of course energies are exchanged through Mother Earth, at every point, but these are vortices.

Now around planet Earth there are many many vortices. Some areas of extremely high power, where energy is exchanged with the cosmos, but there are some areas which are required to be inter-dimensional, gaps, wormholes, other such aspects.

The Bermuda Triangle holds these energies. The rest of planet Earth has energies that are relatively fluid and stable. This is an area of constant re-creation of energies. New portals keep opening up in this area. Aspects of inter-dimensionality are exchanged, which are needed for planet Earth. Aspects of planet Earth are released from here to other dimensions. It is simply a portal.

Those who sail upon this portal always experience an inner shift. They may not be consciously aware of it, but as you are aware ships instruments do not function in certain areas. Some places time seems to go faster, some places clocks stop. Your body responds in exactly the same manner, but there is an energy set of safety valves within the body, that permits the energies to enter and exit you to a certain degree, when you are crossing this area.

There are some, who either to use it for their growth, or accidentally slip into it., because they are energetically open. Just as on an average you cannot be possessed without your will, but if there is a powerful entity around and you are completely open and energetically low, you can slip into it. There are those few people who are accidentally transported through the Bermuda Triangle, but not many, and even then it is an accident, it is all part of their growth.

R: that is exactly what I wanted to ask, even if it is an accident, are they immediately into another dimension or definitely taken care of...but...will their energies match that dimension...

■: Not at all...not at all, and then their growth, which now has to be freewill, is to allow, align their energies to that vibration, or to die, from there. In other words to refuse to adjust, in which case they would exit. But it is all growth. You may choose a dance class, or an aerobic class; both give you growth, strength and energy, but the manner through which you work is slightly different. There is no right, there is no wrong, and if you do not like the dance class, you will give it up and say, now I wish to join an aerobic class; it is as simple as that. Nothing is lost.

SI: Is this because of the crystals beneath the sea..

■: The crystals on the sea bed, which indeed do exist, act as a facilitator; they are the energy source that permits these dimensional shifts to keep happening. Were they to be mined by humans and destroyed this area would collapse energetically. If hypothetically, that were to happen Earth planet would need another similar area and either this would be created or else Earth would implode... That is why humans have never found the original crystalline bed below the Bermuda Triangle, the origin of which is the Atlantic crystals...Atlantean crystals. They exist, and it is not one giant crystal, not at all, it is a bed of varying crystals of different intensities, different vibrations, some are actually exposed from the sea bed, many are very deep within the sea bed, but they will not be found for an extremely long time, till such times, as the collective vibration of Earth, is that high, that it acknowledges their use and does not tamper with them. There is an energetic shield around this bed, which does not permit the human eye or the human instruments to detect it ...

Na: ...human consciousness...to connect to it..

■: You're right...go ahead and connect...what have you been doing all these years, you have been connecting...the instant you work with any crystal on Earth, by default, you are connecting with the source. Where do you think your instruments work from? There is a diamond crystalline chip in every laser that you use on every operating table. There are crystalline chips in your instrument in laboratories. None of these would function if your Motherload was inactive. They are simply reflectors of power of the Motherload...and your Earth scientists have proof and yet refuse to acknowledge the power of the crystal. They use it, but they do not acknowledge the power. A last question...

Nus: Coming back to the child...the whole subject had changed, I was feeling when I saw in the newspaper...uh...just the child turning in the crib and a cushion covering the mouth can kill a child., and 26...27 wounds and the child is alive...it shows a fighting spirit...a child that is some days old...so it proves that it didn't give up and we give up so easily in life...with a little ailment or something and when I was thinking of Sanjay Dutt...I really felt sorry for him...

👉: Let us pause for a minute...let us pause for a minute... your interpretation of this is a beautiful acknowledgment of the power of your own Inner Child. You have come from an aspect of the powerless, rejected abandoned inner child and you have been able to move it into its fighting spirit, this is simply the acknowledgement of your own growing power .Take a moment and acknowledge that. It is beautiful. Continue...

Nus:... same thing I experienced when I was thinking about Sanjay Dutt, I was sitting on the sofa, and I actually cried, there was no reason, and I am not a big fan of him, I just felt for the victim...and when we were talking now I realized, that I was not crying for him, I was crying for me, I was looking at the victim within me, in my life I have chosen to be a victim somewhere, I know I don't need to...and I am continuing being the victim for...whatever reasons...I am...if I choose to. I can grow out of it...and now I realize I was not feeling sorry for him, I was feeling sorry for myself...

👉: (acknowledging 'Nus' with loud clapping)....
