The Energies of Religious Figures & Public Personalities

Obama and Osama

Trance Channeling begins

 GREETINGS!!

Let us continue last week's session: for those who were not in attendance, the energies of a few, select public figures were examined, helping you understand why you have created them in your lives. To interest the group, we touched upon the energies of several glamorous film stars. Today, we will take this further and indeed we will permit you to select the candidates, but we ask you to now widen your scope and select figure that interest you across ages, and not just from one select profession. Let us first begin by speaking of a few ourselves.

Once again, for the benefit of those who were not present last week, any public figure has a dual energetic purpose: He has his own life path to follow and his own issues to resolve but at the same time, he or she emits a vital energy for mankind in general. Today we shall speak of the energies that public figures emit for mankind in general; we shall not examine their personal missions.

The Einstein was created by you for one reason only, to help all the people of Earth 'think outside the box'. His energies, in general were so new, so diverse and so fragmented. Yes, we use the word 'fragmented', though not in the way you understand this concept. His collective energies were a collection of millions of strands, each vibrating at a different level. Very few human beings can contain this kind of vibration, as automatically your strands begin to merge and the energies come into a level of energetic harmony. In the Einstein's case, he was like an energetic Medusa, with the various energies pouring out of him, each one maintaining its own frequency, at times increasing or decreasing, independent of the others.

Energetically he affected not only the scientific community, but every individual on the planet. Even today, though he is not in physical form, he affects anyone who has any kind of knowledge of understanding of him...even if they have only just heard of him.

Remember, it does not matter if the human being is not in physical form any more: the fact that he has been on Earth and is in your consciousness means you are still using his energies, to force yourself to 'think out of the box'.

By accessing the Einstein energies, you are able to reevaluate every aspect of your life. Problems that appear insoluble can be looked at from a different perspective if you simply access the Einstein energies. Relationships that seem to be going nowhere, can dramatically shift, change and transmute, if you access the Einstein energies. Most 'public energetic figures' peg their energies on a particular field, where indeed it is felt the most, but their energies are meant for all.

The Stephen Hawking energies have been spoken of before by us. He was a great scientific channel, who chose, deliberately and willfully, to cut off his physical senses and attachments one by one, so that he would be completely focused on his mission, which was to awaken and infuse the scientific minds of earth with new and upgraded information.

He used what could be termed as 'a waking coma': one degree lower, and he would have been in a physical coma, but that state wouldn't have allowed him to fulfill his mission. So he chose instead to slowly detach from all bodily functions, bodily desires, emotional desires, and other earthly 'distractions', so that he could be the most perfect channel.

He also did another wonderful thing, which was not part of his plan, but which he introduced while on Planet Earth: he made science glamorous, appealing and accessible to the masses. He made it fashionable. Cool. Exciting. He appealed to all youthful minds. Now let us speak of the Osama and the Obama. Yes, in the same breath. Why in the same breath?

Group Member: – Because of the polar opposites that they are?

 – Precisely! Dear friends, they are not polar opposites; they are identical energies that function in different ways. . The Osama and the Obama energetic quotient is identical. They could be energy twins: two sides of the same coin – (laughing) and if you recall, we spoke of the phrase 'two sides of the same coin' last week.

We explained that both sides of a coin are actually identical...flat metal....it is what you imprint on it that makes the sides different.

The Osama: a very vigorous teacher, awakening minds and human consciousness, and forcing people to question themselves, their belief systems, and their attitudes towards other. Here 'questioning self' is the focal point.

The Obama: equally spiritual, equally connected, equally focused, but with the 'embrace of humanity' as his focus. So you will see him as the hero, and the other as the anti-hero, but truly both are energetic heroes, carrying out their missions perfectly, both are in divine connect. Both these souls use the energetic pathway of the word 'change': to inspire, instigate, provoke, push, prod, shake up, vibrate, and effect the change, no matter how. Neither questions their means, yet both help facilitate change in humanity.

Group Member: – What kind of change is the Osama trying to bring about?

—If a terrorist needs to fulfill a life mission of killing and slaughtering, and it is in alignment with self, he has to find a way on Earth to provoke him to carry on that mission. If he is not provoked, he will move away from it, so he has to come into a society and a structure which is bigoted, filled with hatred, filled with discord, and he will create circumstances in his life, external or internal, that provoke him to move along that path. That is how it works for all who have public missions. Similarly, a film star who has to reach the top may need to go through personal processes of being vicious, greedy, nasty, and clawing to get there.

Group Member: Could you speak to us of the Osho energies?

—The Osho. (Sohrab raises his hand to salute Asha) Dear one. Sister, sister! The Osho energies are inter-dimensional, inter-galactic energies. His energies are a series of spheres, one inside the other, each representing a differing aspect of the Universe, a different dimension, a different vibration.

His watchword was ‘awaken!’, and he used many means to help people awaken...some were highly applauded, other highly criticized. This master was able to reach out to the pupil, assess his energies and use the most appropriate tools at hand, to help him awaken self. He deliberately used knowledge, meditation, a joyous celebration of all things material, even sex. He, himself, contained a joyous appreciation of all aspects of humanity: he could be opulent to the point of vulgarity, and at the next moment, he could be frugal, contained and meditative. He could be energetically contracted, and the next moment move into full expansion.

It did not matter whether you admired him or condemned him, whether you followed his teachings or rejected them decisively...either way, you were awakening.

Group Member:— Satya Sai Baba?

—Let us talk of both the Sai Babas. What do you know of the Satya Saibaba? What is the general impression of the group about the both of them?

Group Member:— Satya Sai Baba was a miracle man, that’s what I get and he awakened people through the miracles he did.

Group Member: – Shirdi Sai Baba is genuine and the other one might be fake.

— Aah! Wonderful! Thank you for having the courage to voice what most in this room actually feel, but were too embarrassed to say out aloud.

Group Member: – I think Shirdi Sai Baba was a humble soul and this one was an arrogant one.

🌅 - Both these Masters came to Planet earth with intense personal issues: we have spoken of this a long time ago. All Masters, when incarnated on earth, use this arena to also work out personal issues as well. Even though most resisted these issues during their lifetime, they are magnificent enough to be fully embracing of these aspects of self, without judgment of self, and without apology.

The Satya Sai Baba, 'the miracle man, the arrogant man, the fake', had personal power issues to resolve, which he attempted to do through two earthly tools: corruption and sex. He would often use and exercise his sexuality, which was extremely potent, bring himself to a crescendo of power and then crash, because that crescendo of power was meaningless, was empty; it was not the real power he desired to touch within self. So his physical life on Earth was a series of peaks and troughs, peaks and troughs, built upon perverted use of power. When we use the word 'perverted' here, we mean that it simply was not in alignment with self.

He also experimented with aspects of corruption, physical and emotional, to attempt to find his power center. Through these vigorous means he worked towards finding and balancing his power; and in the process, helped others along the same path. Was all this done willfully and deliberately by him? Not consciously, but it was his mission and he followed it through perfectly.

Now let us speak of the Shirdi Saibaba. A great soul! An expanded soul, an awakened soul, and yet, in the physical form, he had an issue with self-worth. Yes, we are aware this is upsetting the sensibilities of many in this room. If this is so, ask yourselves why? A Master joyously acknowledges ALL aspects of self, without condemnation of self, without feeling small. Can you?

It takes a fully expanded soul, to say 'Yes, I don't have much self worth and yet, I am a Master. It is simply an area of growth I need to explore, it is not a flaw.' Try and do that and see if you can match the power of the Sai. Today the Sai is a cosmic force to be reckoned with, and his energies have very little to do with Earth. Oh yes, of course they touch and embrace the Planet Earth, but they are pure cosmic energies which work extensively in the expanded universe, Earth is but one drop in His ocean of Energies, and yet He joyously admits to the aspect He worked upon on Planet Earth. It has been fully assimilated by him now.

Group Member: – Is that the reason why He allowed himself to be worshipped when he was on Earth?

🌅 – That is an interesting question, dear one. He allowed Himself to be worshipped, sometimes in perfect balance and at other times, in no balance at all. When he was in perfect balance, he joyously spread his light and allowed others to worship Him, as in doing so; they were only acknowledging their own power. When He was not in balance, he allowed the same action to take place in a desire to touch his own power through them, and in these moments, both crashed. However, all was perfection. Through this he taught certain people to truly touch their own Mastery, and others (who needed it) to learn through giving their power away.

Group Member: – Two people I want to know about are Zarathushtra and Merlin the Magician.

☀ – (Laughing) You speak of a subject close to his heart! (Pointing to self). Merlin, Zarathustra, Shakespeare, St. Germaine: all different facets of the same energy, and this must also be touched upon now. Thank you.

Every soul, Master or otherwise, has a process of evolution to go through, for self. Therefore the Zarathushtra used each different incarnation for personal growth, which also had to match the needs of the many around him. That is why the process of taking birth at a particular time, place, date and moment is so intricately chosen.

The Zarathushtra energies recreated the definition of 'Light', as it was known and understood, at that moment in time. Light and vibration are the cornerstones upon which your universe is built. The sound of the OM is light and vibration. So he upgraded (for want of a better word) the energies of light and vibration, and brought that to Planet Earth, in His Earthly form of the Zarathustra.

In his forms of the Merlin and the St. Germaine, he added to it by working with Alchemy. Alchemy, not by turning lead into gold, but by changing the inner cellular structure, changing and upgrading the thought patterns and beliefs; in other words, he facilitated the recreation of self by self.

That, dear ones, is alchemy; and when you can do that, you can wave your hand and change lead into physical gold, if you so desire. In His Shakespearian incarnation, he wished to effect a change in the light and vibration of human relationships.

Shakespearian plays are still the most widely studied plays around the Planet. This is because the energy content within his words touch your emotions even today. Any Shakespearean scholar will tell you that his plots and the emotions described are timeless.

His writings are also like a code within a code within a code: you can read them at the surface level, but if you delve deeper and deeper, you will find new, hidden sub-textual aspects that suddenly affect you. All to do with layer upon layer of human emotions, and inter-personal relationships. There is a veritable 'Bible' contained within his works.

Group Member: – I want to know about Maha Avatar Babaji and Yogananda?

☀ – The Maha Avatar Babaji was energetically the ultimate teacher. The ultimate teacher. What does this mean? A true teacher is one who bores into your very energy structure, your soul, your vibration, and offers you the opportunity to move in a direction of perfection for self.

A true teacher will be able to look at a hardened criminal: if he assesses that that is the perfect mission for that soul, he will help facilitate it to the utmost. But if he studies the criminal's energies, and found that he has simply gone astray, he will then gently guide him onto the path most appropriate for him.

In either case, the true teacher will not have judged or criticized his pupil; as he knows that ultimately, there is no 'right or wrong', and that either choice is simply a different experience.

The Maha Avatar Babaji offers his unique teaching skills to all who wish to avail of them. He is not bound by time, space or dimension. Most creative people, even today, access his energies to inspire self.

Now let us hear what you have to say of the Yogananda.

Group Member: – When I look at his picture, I feel he is just showering everyone with light and love.

🌅 – Wonderful! The Yogananda energy helps you touch love in all its different forms. Not just soft, sweet, Earthly love; but love as a force, love as a power, love as an instrument of destruction when necessary, tough love, and so on. All the aspects, all the permutations and combinations, all the interpretations of love, even what you might condemn as perverted love, because all is an experience of some form of love.

Group Member: – Prophet Mohammed and Lady Diana, please!

🌅 - The Mohammed energies are those of pure reconstruction. They are not bound by religion, in fact they are generally misconstrued and perverted by religion. So the Prophet Mohammed energies are the energies of reconstruction of self, situations, ideology and all structures. And yet, in the 'name of religion', they are constantly used for destruction. "Two sides of the same coin". It is through de-construction that the old can be removed, to make way for the new.

If the same beings who use their version of the Prophet Mohammed's teachings to justify their ends only looked within self, they would be able to use His magnificent energies, his liquid light consciousness energies, to reconstruct their entire beingnesses. Dear friends, welcome these energies into your lives, and you will find yourselves creating self anew.

Group Member: – The Sufis use their whirling energies to the same end.

🌅 – Absolutely! True Whirling Dervishes are those who use this powerful motion to create energy vortices, moment to moment. And in this act, they come into perfect alignment with self and the Universe. And it is these vortices that have facilitated the change and the reconstruction of most of the major cities and civilizations on planet Earth. These vortices are timeless: even if spun centuries ago, in a remote corner of the globe, they still effect change.

Group Member: – That means that the Prophet Mohammed energies are on Earth right now for reconstruction?

🌅 – Absolutely! And remember, energies are not bound by time and space, as you are. So by even thinking of them, you can instantly access them.

[At this point, 'Saj' has a violent coughing fit]

👉 – Release, do not hold back. Congratulations!! (to the group) What is happening to her today?

Group Member: – Something she's holding onto, which she has not been willing to let go up to now, is releasing.

👉 – That is correct – a deep, past-life issue is coming up. You are processing it and releasing it simultaneously. Do not stop it. The Lady Diana energies, in a single word, are the energies of humanitarianism. Her energies helped all those who connected with her, touch their personal aspects of humanity, or the lack thereof. Princess Diana: a woman, a commoner who married into the royal family, who attempted to bridge the gap between protocol and humanity, who went through her own trials and tribulations, and in that process, seemingly damaging so many around her. Yet inspiring others.

She represents (we use the present tense deliberately) the aspects of humanity within yourself that you either embrace or refuse to touch. Where do you acknowledge the diversity within self and embrace both sides? When do you flaunt yourself publically? When do you behave irrationally and irresponsibly when it comes to family, your children, your position, your situation in life? Do you express and demonstrate your love of your family? The common man?

The Princess Di energies are very complex ones. Her individual energy strands represent and embrace ALL concepts of humanity: the good mother and the bad mother, the good wife and the callous wife, the thinking individual and the thoughtless individual, the media darling and the media target, the one you aspire to be and the one you desire not to be, and so on.

All her experiences, which were very much in the public eye, helped awaken the world to those aspects in self, many of which people just didn't want to face in themselves.

Question yourselves now: what aspects of her displease you? If so, why? What attributes of hers do you admire or emulate? If so, why? You will get some interesting answers!

Group Member: – How about Meher Baba? Kalki Bhagwan? Elvis and the Beatles? Henna – Oprah Winfrey, please?

👉 – Dear ones, you will be here till tomorrow morning at this rate! We can only speak of a few more today.

The Oprah energies have been spoken of before. She is a living master, and one who awakens others through the media, provoking humanity to acknowledge the existence of and examine issues they would not normally look at.

An average person in an average city in India would not necessarily examine aspects of child molestation (which exists very predominantly in their society), but the moment it is given aired with the authority of the Oprah energy, it suddenly awakens their consciousness and their public and private responsibility.

Oprah's energies set off a chain reaction: the moment a person watches a show of her, perhaps dealing with child molestation, they either awaken to a suppressed aspect of this in their own lives, or else are lead to speak to a friend who has had this experience. The Oprah energies infuse them with a sense of courage, and sense of self, a sense of "I matter". They invoke power. The power of self. Of self-expression. Of facing the situation. Of shifting. Of assimilation.

Similarly, Oprah herself publicly works through her personal demons: child abuse, poverty, obesity, an imbalance of power, and so on. But she does so fearlessly, in the public eye, energetically inviting all others who share her issues to work alongside with her. So she provokes you to first acknowledge hidden aspects of self, and to then join her fearlessly and courageously to assimilate them.

👉- (Laughing) What can I say about myself? Who do you think has been taking this meeting today?

I am wonderful; I have no issues, I am glorious! (laughing uproariously)

The Meher Baba energies, dear friends, provoke your energy of humor. When I speak of humour, I do not just refer to laughing out aloud, or crying with tears running down your cheeks.

The energies of humor lie deep within you, and are the most exciting of energetic tools. They awaken the cellular structure, and open all the doors of inner consciousness. If you were to study an individual cell being affected by humor, you would see the cell starting to blossom like a flower, opening itself joyously to all aspects that wish to come in without fear, without shielding or protection. Humour opens the cellular structure to EVERYTHING, because all is perfection.

So the Meher Baba energies help you awaken, blossom, shine and joyously embrace all that is, without judgment, with open energetic arms.

Group Member: – Laughter heals?

[Meher Baba responds by laughing and laughing]

BLESSINGS
