THE RAINBOW WARRIORS
THE MERKABA

Trance Channeling begins

 Greetings!

You have heard the terms 'Indigo children', 'Crystalline children', and so on: let us now introduce you to yet another genre that has evolved upon Planet Earth – that of the Rainbow Warrior.

The word 'rainbow' refers to a person who chooses to access all Universal frequencies, in combination with his own energies. He demands, of the Universe, access to any spectrum, frequency or vibration; and combines them in any manner he deems fit, for his growth and evolution, and for the service he offers another. He understands the 'bigger picture', and goes beyond the limited earthly perception of a Master or Guide.

The term 'warrior' refers to the conflict that takes place within self: he fearlessly faces those internal aspects that are 'at war' with self, and chooses to bring them up for reviewal and assimilation, using the high-level frequencies at his disposal.

Now, anyone can join this group: you can be of any age, any creed or colour, and any level of personal evolution at all; you simply have to desire to be a part of it.

The Rainbow Warrior is an aspect of the Ashtaar on planet Earth. Most of you are familiar with the Ashtaar, but for those of you who are not, they are a magnificent group of Universal friends, who work for the upliftment and betterment of all societies in the Universe.

The 'rainbow' also reflects all aspects of self: in other words, when you join this brotherhood, you have to be prepared to face and acknowledge the magnificence of every part of self. Once you join this brotherhood, you cannot then continually divide self into 'acceptable' and 'non-acceptable' parts.

Be aware that, if you choose to consciously align with the brotherhood, those parts of self that you detest will instantly be brought up for assimilation and embrace. You will also be committing self to eternal service: service to self first and to all others as well.

This brotherhood does not permit its members to ignore this vital aspect of 'service to self'. You will not be permitted to continually ignore self, or to deflect personal issues by continually focusing on others outside self.

Many on earth have chosen, at a higher-conscious level, to join this group. But if you choose to add the conscious level to it as well, the effects will be intensified.

Do not feel compelled, now that you have heard this term, to commit to it at the conscious level. 'Feel it out' for self first. You will not be losing out on anything; every single person in this room has already joined this group at a higher-conscious level. But conscious alignment with it offers you greater responsibility and greater benefits as well. Your evolutionary process on earth will simply be speeded up.

As a conscious group member, you will have to face 'the rough with the smooth', but your ability to 'view the larger picture' will also be enhanced. You will also be able to evolve very rapidly, using the energies of the new crystalline grid.

In general, over the next two years, humanity will have to now deal with many shifts, ripples and, indeed, explosions; not only in this city, but worldwide. You will all have to learn to 'ride the waves' like a surfer, rather than get mired in the emotionality of the situations that arise.

How would I, as a Rainbow warrior, align myself with current events, like India's current anti-corruption drive and the Anna Hazare issue? Thought I applaud the motive, I cannot quite agree with the methodology being used.

The path of the Rainbow Warrior is relatively solo. Each one has to touch his own power at any given moment of time, and in every individual situation. When any event takes place, be it a minor one, or a world event, such as a bombing or a natural disaster, the Rainbow Warrior does not have the luxury of permitting self to get caught up in the sensationism of it.

He has to examine it from several levels. He first starts with his earthly 'reaction' to it. He acknowledges and embraces what he is feeling at the base level, without reservation. For example, if he is faced with an act of terrorism, he may start by acknowledging his feelings of being victimized; he must acknowledge his fear, his disgust, his anxiety, and possibly even his feelings of hatred towards the group or community that created the event.

But he is not permitted to remain here. He must shortly move to the next level, and ask self what has 'triggered' him so strongly in this event. He must then acknowledge and accept all the answers that come up, by giving self an honest and thorough self-appraisal. Through this, he unearths many aspects of self that he may previously have dismissed or not acknowledged.

He then must move to the third level, and understand why this event has been created for planet Earth and all her inhabitants.

Through this process, he comes to several personal conclusions, and then makes his choices about what to do, and how to serve the situation.

He connects with self and decided what his role is to be. Is self urging him to go out and be a part of the physical volunteers? If so, he must go to the scene of disaster and serve hands-on. Is self urging him to simply work energetically? If so, he must begin immediately. Is self urging him to add his energies to further intensify the situation? If so, he must do so without fear or guilt.

This seems like a tough challenge!

 Yes, but if you are a Rainbow Warrior, you take on the challenge! A Rainbow Warrior declares consciously that he has the wherewithal to do it, as he does not see himself as 'small' anymore.

Dear friends, you now cannot keep apologizing for who you are! You now cannot keep limiting your view of self, and of your strengths and capabilities!

The energies surrounding you are now working at such speed and intensity that, if you keep viewing yourself as small and insignificant, these energies will only intensify that, and you will be left lying at the wayside.

The Master energies are now focusing on aiding those who help themselves, and those who are willing to take on Universal responsibility. This, of course, does not mean that all others will be abandoned by them: that cannot ever be. But the Master energies will focus upon those who are willing to serve the Planet, and serve themselves.

Therefore now, to 'connect' with the Master energies that you so love, you will have to be pro-active. You will have to make choices and act upon them. Inaction and ambivalence on your part will only escalate the intensity of your lessons, as you only desire to grow quickly, and you are not willing to tolerate evasion on your part.

Surely, if each person works in his own way, there will be further conflict? If one person intensifies a situation, and another works to calm it down, where is the unity in this? Aren't we, once again, 'creating our own devils'?

(Sohrab laughing) Again, you perceive it from one layer alone. Let us give you an example you will comprehend. Your tongue has different receptors for four primary tastes: sweet, sour, salty and bitter. A bitter molecule cannot enter any of the other receptors, as it will not be recognized there. So each molecule of flavor finds a perfect 'fit'.

In the same way, a section of planet earth may need the destructive energies of fire, while another section may need the energies of healing, at the very same moment in time. If you align with your higher self, and work in flow, you will be directed to serve in perfection with the divine plan.

When you do this, even if it to 'intensify the situation', you are aligning with the energies of self and of the planet, and in all likelihood, you will serve by ensuring that there is minimal damage, and that only those who need to involve self with the event will do so.

There is a global symphony taking place: an explosion here, a market crash there, a new, breakthrough discovery in a third place, and so on. All of this is being finely orchestrated; not only by the consciousness of Planet Earth, but also by a host of Universal friends, who currently surround you.

The quotient of visiting Universal Friends will reach its peak in 2012. Earth has never before had so many wonderful visitors, friends and guides; who have come to collectively work for her growth and upliftment.

Some of these friends will act as instigators, others will work on containment. Some come to further scientific knowledge and technological breakthroughs, and others to offer energetic nourishment, guidance and pure love. Some have come to awaken minds, and others to provoke course changes.

All of this in response to Earth's call, her siren song. Her call has been loud, intense and beautiful: many visitors who would not normally have come, have changed course to accommodate her needs. They are intrigued by her energy shifts, and only desire to help.

I have been closely following the current Anna Hazare issue. I sense the hope that is arising, I see the oneness that seems to be uniting the people; yet there are many aspects that I don't feel are best suited for the country. I would also like to see the aspects of corruption come up within those who are supposedly fighting corruption. Would this be the multi-layered manner in which, as a Rainbow Warrior, one could offer energies to the situation?

 Indeed! Any major event, be it a Royal Wedding or a bombing, is also created to raise consciousness and awareness. Even the holocaust did that. It urges people to think, to shift patterns and structures, to question self and 'the system'; and through this, group consciousness rises.

The event you mentioned has raised your country consciousness three points. This event has already set off a chain reaction. Some may emulate his example; others will find alternate ways to fight corruption. Smaller groups are being formed as we speak, to do the same thing in their own sphere.

Some will now start to examine the corruption within self; others the corruption within their family unit, and so on. A ripple effect has been set in motion. The problem with India, per se, is that the overall energies are rather stagnant. A similar event in another country would have had a more intense ripple effect.

Your country's paradox is that its spiritual energies are very high, as compared to the other energies. Lightworkers like you must work to raise the other energies, so that the distance between them lessens. This stagnancy often needs extreme measures, such as fires, earthquakes and explosions, to help shift it.

Yes, India's energies are so complex. The minute one layer seems to get sorted out, another goes awry. Can you tell us about the MerKaBa? As I understand it, Mer is use, and Ka is soul: so it means the movement of the soul from one level to another. As a MerKaBa only functions in the 3rd dimension, I believe that our crystalline grid will now undergo yet another leap forward, and move into other dimensions.

Very simplistically, a MerKaBa is a Universal diving board. And the swimming pool beneath is a realm of infinite possibilities and probabilities, encompassing choices, events, situations, and dimensions. Each one of you is 'diving off' your own MerKaBa.

BLESSINGS, JOY, LOVE AND LIGHT FROM THE LORD SANANDA

(Sohrab shifts energies)

 The Zoroastrian energies, which are much in attendance today, are most definitely for any one who chooses to access them. The Zoroastrian temple in the sky is open to all: no one is ever intended to be kept out.

So welcome to the Zoroastrian energetic temple. Take a moment and take in these vibrant energies. (pause) Allow them to flow into self. Allow them to caress self. These energies are gifts of the universe; and are yours to command. Go ahead: instruct them to nurture you, guide you and assist you in whatever way you choose. Your will is supreme.

 (Laughing aloud) Kem che badao? Aah, I had so many visitors just now! (Note: several group members had just returned from Meherabad)

(Indicating a group member) Yes, I even sat in your lap on the way back!

BLESSINGS FROM MEHER BABA

(Sohrab shifts energies)

 Dear friends, the Ganesh energies bless you!

The Ganesh energies are particularly potent this year. They will lead you through portals, through celestial wormholes, and help you exit at various energetic arenas suitable to self.

The Ganesh energies will help you explore and assimilate those parts of self that you have resisted over lifetimes. Use the energies joyously during this festive season.

Physical participation with the festivities is immaterial, you may or may not choose to do so, but the energies are for all to use. They are highly extra terrestrial, and are of frequencies you have never before encountered.

Use them fully and joyously; stop seeing yourselves as 'mere earthlings', and instead allow them to guide you into a vision of self as a truly Universal being.

If you wish, you may start accessing them today. Draw them into the hara chakra, and allow them to be spreading throughout your physical and energetic bodies.
