

7th June, 2012

THE ENERGIES OF MAHA AVATAR BABAJI

THE EMBRACE OF ARCHANGEL MICHAEL

THE EMBRACE OF THE SAI.

AWAKENING FROM THE MOHAMMED

Channeled by Sohrab

THE NEW MASCULINE/FEMININE ENERGETIC BALANCE

Trance Channeling begins

 Welcome!

It is amusing for us to observe the level of resistance, on Planet Earth, to the new balance of the masculine and feminine energies. You resist this, as you are more familiar with, and more accustomed to, imbalances within self! Imbalance, to most of you, seems the norm.

You already know that the masculine is the initiative, and the feminine the creative. Though there is still a 'time lag' between the two for you, the children of today work with both simultaneously.

Let us discuss what is now taking place. Each one of you is reviewing, at a higher level, and at break-neck speed, the imbalances of both aspects within self. We now refer to the imbalances you have in all your concurrent lifetimes.

You will not be able to keep up with this process in your conscious mind, as you are processing millions of these aspects in a second. You could liken this process to a computer, working at high speed, to complete a scan of its own components.

You will, therefore, not get a clear picture of what is happening; but from time to time, you will start to get flashes of aspects of self, particularly ones that are in complete masculine and/or feminine imbalance. Some may pertain to this lifetime, and some to others.

You may start getting flashes of aspects of self that are imbalanced, devious, dictatorial, controlling, confused, and so on. All of this is fine: allow these images to come up, and accept them as integral experiences of the self, without judgment.

This way, you are assimilating them fully. If you resist them, you might find yourself tempted to act upon them, which may not be appropriate for current self.

Similarly, over the next few months, you may find yourselves experiencing moods and emotions that feel unfamiliar. A habitually calm person, for example, may find himself touching unfamiliar anger and irritation. A pacifist may find violent thoughts and feelings arising within self.

Embrace these aspects of self, acknowledge their validity in your overall existence, and assimilate them.

We are, of course, not urging you to act them out. But if you embrace them, you will not need to do so. You will simply be balancing out the masculine and feminine energies within self.

You may also experience wonderful aspects of self, such as heroism and courage. Paradoxically, you may find these even harder to acknowledge and assimilate; but please do so!

If we resist all of this, will it take us into a space of relative imbalance?

 Yes it will, because once again you will be suppressing an aspect of self that self has dredged up for assimilation. Resistance will only make you feel more emotionally and physically depleted.

Would you give us a vision of what it would be like, if we fully recalibrate the new Us?

 Full and total recalibration is unlikely to ever be achieved by the Human Race, but you desire to work towards it!

In a perfect scenario, your physical bodies would come into perfect energetic balance and alignment. Your organs would work in perfect harmony with self and the Universe. If there was even a temporary imbalance in one organ, the others would conspire to bring it into balance: there would be no disease. You would simultaneously be alerted to the emotional imbalance bringing about that discomfort, and you would instantly address the issue and right it.

Your bodies would start communicating not only with self, but with all others around you. You would instantly 'pick up' on the moods, feelings and emotions of all around you. This deep understand of another would help you empathize with them so fully that there would rarely be any kind of conflict. You would understand them as you understand yourself.

This does not mean that there would be 'total peace' on earth; as emotional ripples are necessary for your evolution; but they would rarely go beyond that. There would be no war.

A world government would then come into play. Food, water and resources would be joyously distributed the world over. A world currency would evolve. Citizens would care for one another; without seeing a separation in country, colour, cast or creed. They would see themselves as world citizens.

Other physical changes would also take place: your skin would begin to actually glow with the higher frequency of energies coursing through you. The inner masculine/feminine balance would bring about more homogenous physical features. Men and women would truly understand and respect each other to a greater degree, as they would be more in touch with those aspects within self.

Full and fluid communication with self, and with all around you, would be prevalent. You would not only be able to use physical and telepathic communication, but you would also sense all around you. You would be open to communication with other species, on earth and around the Universe.

Your empathy with other species on your planet itself would ensure that nothing would go into imbalance. You would work towards reversing the imbalances previously caused by over-hunting or over-fishing, and you would joyously work with Planet Earth, and not against her.

Your fear levels, and worthlessness would diminish, and you would see yourselves as the truly magnificent species that you are.

Only if we were totally recalibrated?

 No! It is unlikely that the human race will reach 100% in this; but even if you would move into a space of 80%, you would be wonderful magnificent human beings.

What is our current percentage?

35%

In general, the entire human race needs to examine its imbalances in the masculine and the feminine aspects of self. This balance shifts, moment to moment: you may be relatively balanced on a certain day, and then you allow a conflict with your partner to throw this akilter.

Currently, you swing wildly: from a 90% to a 10% balance. As you now work at this, using the new Universal energies, you will slowly begin to reduce this wide margin, so that you do not drop down so low.

Remember, these energies only offer you the opportunity to touch your power and reduce this imbalance; they will not do the work for you.

Observe what is currently happening in many countries: corruption, which is now so rampant, is a complete imbalance of both the masculine and feminine aspects of self. If the creative feminine energies were flowing, there would be no desire to be greedy and self-serving. If the initiative masculine energies were flowing, there would only be steps taken to joyously distribute opportunities and wealth.

Now, using this example, when a person resists the upgrade of both the masculine and feminine, he spirals further into corruption. Inner lack leads him towards further greed. At some point he will hit rock-bottom, and then he will have to examine this in his life and make a shift.

The petrol prices went up because of this, and the dollar went up??

 This is all part of the process just described. You will also notice personality traits of individuals, groups and communities, all magnifying. A gossip, for example, will find his need to gossip increasing.

All aspects of self, be they what you term 'positive' or 'negative', will start magnifying. This must now happen, as you are being invited by self to examine them, and to use your power to make whatever shifts you choose.

In the past, when planet Earth attracted to herself new Universal energies, you were influenced by them, whether or not you consciously desired to be. Now, your power is so strong that you can reside here and choose not to access these magnificent gifts, if that is your will. And if you don't, you will simply be 'the loser'.

As children, your parents continually urged you to 'eat the right things'. As energetic adults, you are now faced with a magnificent buffet: the choice is entirely yours whether you wish to nourish yourself, or to starve.

Because of this, you will now observe different people evolving at very differing rates. Groups like yours, for example, who thirst for knowledge and self-awareness, will attract to self every opportunity to avail of this.

Other groups that choose to experience separation and bigotry will take themselves further down that chosen path.

Opportunities are given to each person to shift or change, at will; so no one is ever 'abandoned' by self or by the Universe. But this desire and the impetus to change, to grow and to evolve, HAS to come from within.

Upto now, you have had a split within self: the higher soul has always worked for the betterment of self; and the incarnated aspect has been allowed to grow slowly, at its own pace, often making incorrect choices for self.

Now, you are needed to align the incarnated self with the expanded self, so that there is absolutely no differentiation between the two. There must now be only one Self. If you continue to hold onto the separation, you will only experience further discomfort and schizophrenia.

Does the timing of the current Queen's celebrations have something to do with this? On the one hand, there is deep austerity in that country; and on the other, people from around the world seem to be coming together, to celebrate in love and togetherness.

 You are quite correct. Britain still contains, in its energetic structure, aspects of its past rigidity, its desire to control others.

Dear friends, do not misunderstand this statement. Even though its current citizens may not feel this way anymore, an energetic residue of its past is still contained in their cellular structure. The collective consciousness of the people of that country now wishes to rid itself of this.

The country will therefore create, for self, events like this celebration, and the upcoming Olympics, to offer its inhabitants the opportunity to joyously embrace the oneness of all, regardless of cast, creed, ethnicity or sexual preference.

The Royal collective, and particularly the Queen herself, are receiving this upgrade at an even great intensity.

Although the family has made attempts to 'move with the times' and to popularize and humanize their image; the institution is still energetically stuck. Princess Diana was a major force in initiating this shift.

Though they were not conscious of this, the recent celebration was a major energetic blow to the family. Interestingly enough, the Duke is more open to shifts than the Queen; hence he was temporarily kept away, while she received the full energetic blast of it. You would even have noticed her unconscious resistance to this, had you examined her various close-ups on TV.

Should she continue to resist, she will suffer ill health. She needs to fully and openly embrace the 'new' Britain that is unfolding before her.

Do not judge her, dear friends, do not judge her! Respect her. A world leader or a religious leader personifies and embodies the resistance of the group.

As the Queen 'cracks', she takes on the brunt of the energies for her people, and then they, in turn, start to crack.

Please note that this has no bearing on whether a leader is corrupt or not; energetically he only assumes that position if he is willing to do this for those who he governs or leads.

As we start this process of balancing our masculine and feminine energies, how are we affecting Planet Earth? What is she going through?

 Planet Earth is doing the same, but in a different way. You work predominantly through emotion; she works through an energetic recalibration of self.

Planet Earth, due to her love of her inhabitants, has allowed certain aspects of her own 'physical body' to go into imbalance; as these imbalances have served some of her children.

Let us illustrate this statement with an example: slavery, as you well know, existed in various parts of the world for many centuries. This had to be allowed, to help the human consciousness evolve into an understanding of individual and civil rights.

For this kind of intense bigotry to exist, say, in America's Deep South, planet Earth had to allow her energies in that area to be completely imbalanced to support this. Were they in full balance, this bigotry would not have been so fuelled.

She does the same with her energies, to support the corruption and greed in your country, and in others as well.

Now, she is also beginning to even out her masculine and feminine imbalances, which she has created to support your growth and learning. In this process, she may need to explode a certain area, or create an earthquake.

As she starts to right her imbalances, those who inhabit the areas will also be provoked to do the same with theirs.

At the same time, she is also releasing, from her core centre, new energetic impulses of rebirthing. These could be likened to solar flares: yet they are earth flares. These flares, when they explode, will shift the consciousness of a group or an area. They have already begun.

You spoke earlier of world leaders and their group energetic responsibility. Does this also apply to leaders of small groups?

Most definitely. The head of a household does the same for his immediate family. And let us assure you that 'the energetic head of the household' does not necessarily mean the father or the breadwinner: it could be a newborn baby.

BLESSINGS, JOY, LOVE AND LIGHT FROM THE ENERGIES OF MAHA AVATAR BABAJI

BLESSINGS, LOVE, JOY AND THE EMBRACE OF ARCHANGEL MICHAEL

JOY AND THE EMBRACE OF THE SAI.

BLESSINGS, LOVE, AND AWAKENING FROM THE MOHAMMED.
