UNIVERSAL FRIENDS NOW CONTACTING GOVERNMENTS
SOLAR WINDS

Trance Channelling begins

 Greetings! Let us speak briefly of the several changes taking place right now on Planet Earth.

The first is the most apparent: the storm in America. (Pointing to D) To answer your question, yes, this has partly been created by planet earth and partly provoked by your Universal friends. This storm had several functions.

All of the physical areas it has affected required energetic release: these held dense, trapped energies; and through this process the energies have now been shaken up and released. New energies are being introduced in their place. Some of the cities, such as New York, required an energy cleanse above the surface as well as below it.

The people themselves also required a similar energetic shake-up and release. Each person manifested an intensity of circumstance, depending on his need: some lost power, others lost shelter and some were without food and water at all.

Many individuals (and corporations) had moved into a space of arrogance, greed, smugness and 'taking things for granted'. They needed to touch humility and begin a process of self-search. Perhaps to re-evaluate their lifestyles, their patterns, belief systems and thought processes.

Those who were alone, home-bound and without power, for example, were being urged to sit in the darkness, without any external distractions like the television and the phone, and self-search. Families in a similar situation were being urged to re-establish communication with one another: perhaps to raise issues and share of themselves.

Did the populace do this? Approximately 35% made significant internal shifts; whereas the others resisted this, and chose instead to wallow in their annoyance or discomfort.

This resistant group is likely to re-create another event within the next three months, to once again offer the self the opportunity to self-search and touch their power. They may do this by creating a similar event; or through another route, such as sickness, the loss of a job or any circumstance that 'cuts them off' for a temporary period from the outside world.

At an even wider level, this event was created to paralyse the city: business, finance, commerce and enterprise had to come to a brief standstill: many were simply defining self by these external aspects, instead of examining who they were. This event needed to take place before the end of 2012.

What about the new-born babies who choose to enter this time?

Most of the children born during this period were high souls, whose energies actually facilitated the event.

Will this help the upcoming Presidential elections?

You may recall last week's session, in which it was mentioned that at the time of the prior elections, one of the five options energetically considered was to create 'an event of such magnitude that the elections would be differed'.

That particular option was not taken at that time; but it has been modified for the current upcoming elections. This event is also an 'energy test' for the two candidates, and the people of America.

Obama, as you well know, has temporarily suspended his campaigning to work towards containment of this event. Romney is divided: he continues to campaign, but also does not want to 'lose face', so he too assists in the work of re-building.

It is now up to the people of America to observe this, and to choose accordingly. This event has occurred at a very precise, specific time.

Do cities and countries choose specific ways to cleanse themselves?

Yes, dear friend. This has been discussed in detail in the past. In general, an area will choose a specific element, for a specific process, at a specific moment in time; such as fire, water, air or an earth shift.

What sort of trapped energies do you see in Mumbai in our city?

You are already aware that the root issue of your entire country (and city) can be defined in one word: "separation".

What exactly does this mean?

 Separation is an issue in which you only look to your personal needs, at the cost of the needs of the collective. Don't you see this all around you?

Your politicians desire only to line their own pockets, and do not care about the well-being of the people. Corporations function in unethical ways, and suppress vital information, to push themselves ahead and to serve their own ends. Individuals happily clean their own homes and dump their garbage on the streets.

Your country has the richest and the poorest, the most educated and the completely illiterate; the most aware and the least aware.

Your city works with Ray 4: Harmony through Conflict. It is only when you create a disharmonious situation (such as 26/11 or the Bombay floods) do you come together as a group, and help one another selflessly and joyously. This euphoria lasts for a while, but then you slip right back to where you were before: into separation.

Does it always have to be like this? Not at all! If you learn from this, you shift into the flip side of Ray 4: truth, beauty, music and art. Pure creativity.

So the 'trapped energies' you asked about are those which fall under the general title of separation: greed, corruption, one-upmanship, thoughtlessness, complete disregard for another's space, feelings and emotions...the list goes on.

Dear friends, you are the lightworkers of this country: it is up to you to help others see this, and to effect a change within self. But first, you must shift this within self.

Going back to the US, what of those who were in the areas where the storm hit, but were untouched?

 Some of these people required interaction with the event at a lower level: perhaps their levels of introspection were directed to one specific area in their lives, which they achieved relatively easily.

Let us look at this practically: a person who had food and power, but found himself housebound due to external circumstances, might have only needed to address his feelings of loneliness. He would have found this 'coming up', even with the distractions of a TV and phone calls to friends.

Many family members, who were separated from each other by physical distance, found new ways in which to appreciate one other. Their love and concern for each other was all they needed to revisit.

Many were also high souls who were 'storm beacons': they were required to actually coordinate and regulate the intensity of the hurricane, directing it to appropriate people and places. Most did this at a higher-conscious level; others at a very conscious level, through prayers and thoughts of love for others who were affected.

You mentioned that as lightworkers, we should be leading the way at all times: what happens when we are physically unwell and unable to work for others?

Let us shatter an old belief system you have. You have been taught in the past that when you are physically low or unwell, it is inappropriate for you to offer energy to another, as it would further deplete you. Let us now turn this on its head.

With the current energies you hold and access, you can now work even more effectively when you are sick. Let us explain why.

When you are healthy, and you work to offer light to another, you often get lazy and work from a dense, less expanded aspect of the self. However, when you are sick, your physical body is depleted; so you automatically project yourself higher up, into rarefied aspects of the self, and work instinctively from there. That is by far the more effective, and you now have to learn to do this at all times, healthy or sick.

Doesn't this also happen at the physical level? If you lose your eyesight, your other senses get more acute. But when you have your eyesight, you don't push your boundaries in other areas; you get complacent.

Will this also work when others are resistant to the energy we send them?

Here is another myth that we now wish to shatter. The more resistant a person appears to be, the more he is influenced by the healing energies you send him.

When you are working with a person who appears to be extremely blocked, one who has put up defences against the light, your energies then encircle him and find a way to infiltrate his defences, through a portal that he has overlooked. In this process, your healing light invades his structure, and sets into motion an energy process that causes the blocks to begin to crumble from within. Again, this is by far the more effective.

Is this how so many current political and economic scandals are now being publically aired, and why corruption is suddenly being brought to light?

Yes, indeed! We would like to salute your group, and the many other lightworkers worldwide, who have been working silently to shift the structure of all countries. You may not be aware of this, but each of you does so, on a daily basis, at a higher conscious level.

But why don't we see any changes?

Oh, there are changes, but you cannot easily see them yet, as the 'internal defences' are still in the process of crumbling. Carefully observe the events in your own country over the next three to five years. There will be much 'airing of dirty linen' in public; but at the same time, you will also observe unusual and uncharacteristic 'awakening'. That stubborn husband who has always dismissed your search as 'all that nonsense' may suddenly turn around and express a genuine interest in all that you have studied. (All laugh)

When a major event such as this storm takes place, how do we best work with it, at a global level?

Each must touch his own power and decide for self, in that precise moment. Some may be provoked to contain it; others to escalate it. Some may be guided to balance and align energies; others may be drawn to a specific area in which to send light.

If your inner voice urges you to escalate the process, do not hold back. You may be one of the key factors to facilitate the event. Do not allow your earthly scruples to hold you back: work with the force and conviction of your divinity.

Surely this will cause conflict in the event? This seems so contrary!

When surgery is being performed in an operating theatre, aren't there seemingly contrary functions performed? One surgeon may have to wield his 'destructive forces' by using a scalpel to cut out a tumour; after which another surgeon may move in and use his seemingly 'preservative forces' to sew up the wound: aren't both equally valid and necessary?

Let us now move further to other shifts and changes currently taking place: Your Universal Friends are now making themselves known to all world governments.

There is not a single world government who has not been directly contacted by Universal friends; and most governments are in a state of panic and trauma. Not because they are 'shocked' by concrete evidence that life exists beyond planet Earth; but because they fear losing control, and losing political sway over the people.

Your Universal friends are taking a very gentle but firm stand. They are making it quite clear that they are 'not here to conquer', as they have neither the need nor the desire to do so. They have assured the governments that they are only here to serve mankind, and to help the collective grow and evolve.

They have also established a 'bargaining policy'. No Universal friend wishes to bargain; it is not part of their structure. But they have understood that it is the only way to reach the governments, as they respond to this tool. So they have assured world governments that if they agree to release information in small doses about the existence of Universal friends, and the purity of their goals; in exchange they will receive new scientific upgrades and new and exciting technology.

Let us assure you, dear friends, that your Universal friends would be glad to share this information freely and openly, but they know there is no other way to provoke your governments.

They are also being firm, and insisting that the governments release this information within a stipulated time period; failing which the Universal friends will reveal themselves directly to the people.

Most governments are in a state of panic: they do not know how to respond to this information. Secret, top-level meetings are being held to discuss this. Armies are being put on high alert. All of this for no purpose whatsoever. Your Universal friends will now see to it that earth awakens. This is not being imposed upon you; it is an answer to the call of the collective consciousness.

Are many of these friends already here on Earth?

■ There are different levels of Universal friends on planet Earth. The first are people like you: many of you contain more than 80% Universal energies, and less than 20% Earthly energies. You function completely as human beings, but there is an inner 'familiarity' with the concept of a Universal being: many of you even yearn to return to the stars.

Similarly, there are other creatures on planet Earth, such as whales and dolphins, which predominantly contain Universal energy. As do crystals.

Then there are humans who desire to receive 'Universal downloads'. These people could be termed Earthlings who are "Universal-friendly". These downloads are demanded, and given, at a higher conscious level. They may suddenly receive 'inspiration' in scientific, technological, economic or artistic fields, for example.

But yes, there are actual aliens wandering among you. Remember, these are 'friend in high places': many have been placed in governments, in the scientific and technological arenas, and in the media. They are working secretly and silently to raise the consciousness of planet Earth, with no desire whatsoever of personal gain. These are generous, benevolent, intelligent and powerful guiding forces for mankind.

A 'speed-up' process is taking place worldwide: you have already witnessed it in fields such as science and technology. The economic and political arenas are the most resistant to this: most people still function from lack, which gives rise to corruption, greed and a desire to hoard; rather than a fundamental understanding of their divine abundance.

This, unfortunately, seems to be inculcated in us!

■ This comes from your survival instinct: in the past, you needed to go out, hunt and kill to survive. You have now substituted that for 'hoarding money and possessions'. Your view of money must change.

You have already observed the collapse of several European economies: there will be further collapses worldwide. Old systems and patterns have to now change.

Further storms and other physical earth shifts will now take place. Many will be sudden and unanticipated. As lightworkers, you will have to be alert at all times. Ask yourselves what you need to offer each time. Sometimes it will be your energies, and at other times your physical assistance, money, or even the hospitality of your home. Do so joyously, with love and compassion.

Now let us speak of a third aspect today, in relation to current Earth changes: that of solar winds.

(Addressing D) Would you briefly share with the group your understanding of this concept?

(Note: D's answer was inaudible. I later asked her to send me a short note on what she had said. S)

Both the fast and slow solar wind can be interrupted by large, fast-moving bursts of plasma called interplanetary coronal mass ejections, or ICMEs. ICMEs are the interplanetary manifestation of solar coronal mass ejections, which are caused by release of magnetic energy at the Sun. CMEs are often called "solar storms" or "space storms" in the popular media. They are sometimes, but not always, associated with solar flares, which are another manifestation of magnetic energy release at the Sun. ICMEs cause shock waves in the thin plasma of the heliosphere, launching electromagnetic waves and accelerating particles (mostly protons and electrons) to form showers of ionizing radiation that precede the CME.

When a CME impacts the Earth's magnetosphere, it temporarily deforms the Earth's magnetic field, changing the direction of compass needles and inducing large electrical ground currents in Earth itself; this is called a geomagnetic storm and it is a global phenomenon. CME impacts can induce magnetic reconnection in Earth's magnetotail (the midnight side of the magnetosphere); this launches protons and electrons downward toward Earth's atmosphere, where they form the aurora.

In most of the recent channeling's by Metratron He talks about the cleansing effect of a solar wind. I have noticed that after a solar storm there are some major earthquakes, and major storms. Before the super storm there was a massive Solar Flare , then the earthquake in Canada 7.7 and then the super storm.

ICMEs are not the only cause of space weather. Different patches on the Sun are known to give rise to slightly different speeds and densities of wind depending on local conditions. In isolation, each of these different wind streams would form a spiral with a slightly different angle, with fast-moving streams moving out more directly and slow-moving streams wrapping more around the Sun. Fast moving streams tend to overtake slower streams that originate westward of them on the Sun, forming turbulent co-rotating interaction regions that give rise to wave motions and accelerated particles, and that affect Earth's magnetosphere in the same way as, but more gently than, CMEs.

Can Solar winds be physically experienced?

Yes and no: I sometimes feel them quite physically, and at other times I don't. Being an earthquake-sensitive, for example, I generally get headaches before a major one is about to take place anywhere in the world.

Thank you. Solar Winds are a bi-product of the Solar flares. Most people will not physically experience a solar wind, as it is not like a normal gust of wind; but those who are energetically sensitive will most definitely experience surges within their bodies.

Solar winds move around you and through you, and those who are attuned to them will experience a sudden shift in their personal energies, and in the energies around them. Solar Winds instantly change the vibration and frequency of your bodies. They re-calibrate your meridians, and change the frequency of the very core centre of your cells.

Each person will be affected differently, depending upon what is appropriate for self; hence two people, in the same room, will be differently affected. In short, at a higher level, you create your own filtration system, based on your cellular memory, your past events, your concurrent lives and the like. All of humanity is currently working mercilessly with these energies.

Mercilessly??

Yes, we use this word quite deliberately. At a higher level, you do not put up any resistance: if you know that this will help you unearth a certain trapped issue, you will 'mercilessly' access the appropriate intensity of energies, to do just that.

Let us say that you have played the 'victim game' over lifetimes: you may now decide that it is time to crack this within self, and you may use the energies of the solar winds to intensify the earthly victim circumstances, to bring them to your immediate attention. At the same time, you will also use the solar winds to increase your power, to help you address the stubborn issue.

In many cases now, people will use the solar winds to shatter that which they cling onto, in powerlessness: jobs, careers, family ties and so on.

Why?

You answer that.

I guess it will help in our ascension.

Precisely. All desire to ascend, to grow, to assimilate and to evolve. Even those who appear to be blocked, corrupt, crooked or limited, will use these energies to their benefit. In some cases, they may intensify the issue, before resolution takes place.

Can you please define 'ascension'? I feel it is 'when I go above, and touch my higher self'.

 May we modify this slightly? Ascension is really 'going further inward', as the Universe is within self.

Ascension truly is complete acknowledgement of your own magnificence. When you touch this, you KNOW that you are the Universe, and the Universe is you.
