Prior to the meeting, the group discussed a recent public event in which two young men had beaten up an architect who had called them to book for littering. This episode had made news headlines and was the talk of the city.

Various opinions were expressed by the group, and it was generally decided to send light to all involved. Sohrab urged the group not to sit in judgment of the boys, but to learn from them instead.

Various aspects were discussed, including learning to take responsibility for ones actions, and choosing to help oneself, particularly if one has had a troubled childhood. The meeting then began.

GREETINGS FROM THE DIVINE M! (The deceased mother of one of the boys, who had herself been a group member)

Do you think he thought of this topic on his own? Of course it was provoked!
Hello friends! (The group greets her joyously)

Yes, this episode and others like it are now going to take place country-wide, as a series of necessary steps in the evolution of India's social consciousness. The architect was provoked to speak out. His nature is such that, without a little push from our side, he would not have gone public, so we urged him forward.

I was very present throughout the entire episode, and my energies are such today, that I was able to facilitate it without any desire to change the course of events. My love for him, for my other family members, and for my friends is now so gloriously detached that I am able to love all completely unconditionally. Even an event like this one does not upset my energies.

My presence at the event was simply to facilitate it in the smoothest manner possible. Had I not used my power (which I now have in abundance), the episode would have spiraled out of control. So, though I helped facilitate the event in a contained manner, I also urged it to have the maximum energetic impact on society. Thus the media, the community and the city was provoked to focus upon it, and to review this social aspect in their lives.

The soul you call my father is present here today, and is also in joyous expansion. We do not need your love and support; but should you choose to offer it, we would joyously accept it.

The earth mother and children, however, do need your energetic guidance. They need to awaken. And they will be repeatedly jolted, if they do not take responsibility for their own lives, actions and emotional imbalances. They need to learn to accept help, as well as help themselves.

As you can tell, I can say this dispassionately, without feeling sorry for them. I am able to detach and appreciate their growth, urging them on; but not feeling in any way desirous of rescuing them from a path that may not be in keeping with their higher soul choices.

Let me also assure you dispassionately that the inherent energies of both the boys involved in this episode are strong, powerful and responsible. They have simply strayed from their own natural flow. Should you choose to help them, simply urge them to connect with their own magnificent higher souls.

Do you have questions of the M**?

I am worried about your younger son.

He is turning inward, further and further. Resentment, anger and weakness are building up within him. He, too, must learn to vent in a healthy and responsible manner. He does not feel comfortable speaking out his innermost feelings. He must find someone to talk to. Opportunities to do so come his way, but he ignores them.

My energies are most certainly with him, and with all my loved one; but I am willing to stand back and let them take any paths they choose. All paths lead to growth.

Blessings from the divine M. Appreciate your own beauty!

(Sohrab shifts energies)

Greetings!

Today, we wish to speak to you of the different realms that exist on planet Earth. Ones which you tend to ignore, dismiss or disbelieve; and yet they are as present as you are.

Unicorns?

Amongst others.

We were just speaking of them!

Let us start with a realm we will call Guardians and Beings of Service. These are actual entities which vibrate at a higher frequency than the primary kingdoms with which you are familiar. They cannot therefore be seen with the naked eye, or heard by you; but let us assure you that they are as physically present, and as 'real' as you are.

The first of this group has already been introduced to you in the past: house spirits. These are wonderful guardians of flats, houses, buildings, commercial institutions, mansions or huts; and their sole (and soul) purpose is to act as a liaison between the structure, and those who inhabit it.

We have, in the past, repeatedly urged you to consciously connect with your house spirits. It is these friends who remind you, as you are leaving the house, that you have forgotten to take your keys with you. It is these friends who implant a sudden thought in your minds, perhaps after leaving the house, that you have left the stove on. It is these friends who direct your attention to an undisturbed cupboard, which you then suddenly open, and find full of termites. It is these friends who urge you, from time to time, to clean a portion of your home, to redecorate, to move artifacts around or possibly to move the position of your own bed to a more energetically conducive one.

Please communicate with them regularly: they really want to talk to you, listen to you, and help you live joyously in your own home. Their entire function is to serve you and the home.

Through you, they grow, learn and evolve. When you take care of your houses, enjoy them, relax in them, work in them, and make them a true 'home with a heart', they evolve. Please be in touch with them constantly.

Could you tell us more about them please?

Dear friend, there have been several meetings devoted exclusively to these wonderful friends. You could refer to older transcripts.

There are many other high-vibrational friends who also inhabit this planet, whom you whimsically call fairies, pixies and elves. Are they real? Indeed they are, though they have been rather romanticized in literature.

Every forest, wood, and piece of agricultural land has a guardian spirit that attempts to help it remain fertile and productive. All water bodies also have entities that serve them. They work towards keeping the water clean and nurturing.

Mountains have mountain guide spirits, very much like your Sherpas, who energetically traverse the mountains, heal them and guard them. They even attempt to guide lost travelers to safety.

These mountain guide spirits also help various mountain ranges distribute energies throughout the planet. Mountain energy is so powerful; it comes second only to the crystalline kingdom. This energy is radiated worldwide and affects a desert thousands of miles away. Each mountain range offers the planet a unique service.

The Himalayan ranges, for example, work energetically to raise the consciousness of every earth being in existence. The mountains of South America work to facilitate a deeper connection between the kingdoms of earth and Mother Earth herself. All Mesas worldwide, with particular reference to those in Peru and Africa, urge your crown chakras to open up. The verdant hills of Ireland and Scotland work to facilitate worldwide creativity. This list is endless.

What Masters govern natural elements?

In part, the same Masters that serve you; but natural elements also have their own unique Master energies. For example, all water bodies worldwide are also serviced by a Centralized Master Universal Force...not of water, but of Universal Flow.

This Master Energy of Universal Flow has no form, shape or name. But it regulates all earthly water aspects, including the large percentage of water in your bodies. Its function is to facilitate communication between all elements that flow naturally, Universe-wide.

Soil, tracts of land and Planet Earth's inner structure connect with a Universal Master energy that is predominantly one that facilitates nurture, grounding and fertility. Here, Universal nurture and grounding is different to their earth meanings.

Grounding does not signify ‘gravity’; it is the ability to expand at all times while still holding onto a core center. Universal Nurture goes beyond your concepts of love; it represents the ability to embrace every single aspect of existence and non-existence.

Now let us move beyond Guardians and Beings of Service, which are most certainly of your realm; and examine some beings from realms which occasionally intersect with yours. The beings here are of an even higher frequency.

Here, you have Unicorns and Phoenixes, to name but two. These are not mythological beings at all; they exist at a very high vibration in their realms. They simply exist in another dimension of planet Earth; and they are as ‘real’ there, as you are in your dimension. (Laughing) From their perspective, you are mythological beings!

Now, these two dimensions of Planet Earth vibrate at completely different frequencies. Because the other is so much higher than that of planet Earth, you are only able to connect with that dimension when you raise your vibrations to at least the lowest frequency of the other one. Then the two realms intersect.

This is therefore done in meditation, or in the dream state, or in the channeling state, for example. At other times, when you generate a large vortex of sufficient refinement, the two realms come together. At that time, they may choose to visit you.

Beings of very high vibration rarely desire to ‘densify’ themselves. It is uncomfortable to their structure, just as you would be, if you tried to go deep down in the ocean, where the external water pressure would close in on you.

However, when you generate a vortex of energy of high refinement, they do choose to visit you, primarily out of curiosity. If, for example, there is a large group of people chanting and meditating on Mt. Shasta, or during the Wesak Festival, a vortex may open up, and they may ‘come for a visit’. If you are conscious of this, and choose to tune into their frequencies, you would sense them and possibly even see them.

The fact that you are already ‘drawn to them’ means that you have already established a pathway of connection. But you have to open the door as well.

Unicorns, in particular, are very potent energetic beings for lightworkers to interact with. This is because they have tremendous expansion, knowledge, wisdom, awareness, balance, tranquility; all of this combined with unimaginable force and power. They have the perfect balance of power and gentleness.

How do we connect with them?

Raise your vibrations, open your energy portals, and invite them to interact with you. Then talk to them and listen to them. However, you will never be able to hold one, tame one, or make a singular Unicorn your personal companion for life. But you can respectfully invite one to interact with you, from time to time.

You may even have a particular Unicorn energy that chooses to connect with you for an extended period of time, but do not expect it to be a life-long partnership.

Could a Unicorn be my power animal and guide?

Yes, this is possible, but is likely to be temporary.

The Phoenix: a very potent symbol, as it is an energetic structure that repeatedly allows the self to die and be re-born; it ‘rises from the ashes’, and keeps re-creating itself. This is what you all desire in your current state of rapid evolution. Keep re-birthing and evolving.

So are we connecting with these kinds of entities more and more because earth’s frequencies are getting more refined?

There are several factors that determine this. Yes, the frequencies of Earth herself are getting more and more frequencies, your frequencies are doing the same, and you are creating portals of high vibration that allow them to interact with you. They, in turn, are finding Earth very interesting at this moment in time, and this has piqued their curiosity.

Soul to soul, there is a strong connection between the divine Human and the divine Unicorn. Friends over lifetimes.

Did they exist in Atlantis?

Not in physical form; but visitations were frequent. And with the Atlantean crystalline power, inhabitants were able to see them, communicate with them, and interact with them.

What of Mermaids?

The actual Mermaid, in its refined form, did exist eons ago on Planet Earth. They were advanced beings who could live under-sea and in the open air. However, they were rather reclusive, and fiercely protected their identity and their energies; occasionally intermingling with humans at will.

Over time, with the human race becoming more irresponsible and more invasive, and because of the over-pollution of the seas, they chose to move to another dimension of Earth.

A mutated species of Mermaids still exists in physical form under the sea, but this group is not very evolved. They are even more reclusive than their sophisticated ancestors; you are unlikely to ever interact with them. Even their 'dead bodies' are rarely discovered by you, as when their carcasses begin to rise to the surface, they disintegrate due to less and less water pressure.

There is, however, a small group of the refined, sophisticated Mermaid community that still exists deep within the ocean. They have chosen to remain here, in secret, awaiting the evolution of the Human race. When this occurs, they will once again selectively interact with you.

So as of now, there is no way we can ever see them?

Not unless they permit it. They have a technique of energy shielding so advanced, that even if you were seven kilometers beneath the ocean, and passed a group of these friends, you would not be able to see them, as they would use refractive energies to visually shield themselves from you.

What of the Loch Ness Monster?

Yes, the Loch Ness Monster exists. We do not like this term, but we use it for identification. And it is not a singular being, but a group of magnificent entities. They are multi-dimensional beings, who can take on physical form, and as easily transmute themselves into beings of higher vibration which escape human detection.

These friends also have deep, sub-terranean tunnels into which they can escape and hide. They are relatively friendly, and would love to interact with the Human Race; but they sense the predatory nature of Humans, and choose to remain 'uncaptured'.

What of the Yeti?

Yetis are relatively primitive beings. They, too, are shape-shifters; but not as skilled at it as the Loch Ness beings. They have the ability to communicate with both Planet Earth and with her mountains, to a far greater degree than you can.

Their brains do not function like those of Humans. They cannot use logic and reason nor do calculations, as you can; but their instinctive knowledge of Earth and her treasures is far superior to yours.

Many of them are keepers of secret caves and caverns, which contain crystalline energies of such potency, that were the Human race to discover them at this moment in its evolution; it would probably use this energy irresponsibly, for world destruction.

Another set of such caverns contain information and technology planted there eons ago by Universal Friends. These treasures are only to be released when, once again, human consciousness grows to a commensurate level of energetic responsibility.

Do these caverns and tunnels lead to the inner cities of the Earth, such as Agartha and Delos?

Yes, some do; and yes, there are such inner cities in existence right here and now. But we will speak of them at another time.

How 'ready' are we to interact with beings from these cities?

Not even 20% ready yet, dear friend! And you must be at least at 80% readiness before you can freely interact with these inner friends, and with the treasures in the caves.

Why?

It would be as irresponsible as giving a child a loaded gun with which to play.

Do deep-sea beings and creatures consider Lord Vishnu their Master? He is known to be the keeper of the Oceans as well.

What you call Lord Vishnu is what we earlier described as Universal Flow. Understanding this, the deep-sea beings as well as the Oceans themselves are in complete harmony with Him.

Why are the Loch Ness Beings only sighted in that particular area? Do they travel elsewhere?

Those particular Lochs have, in their water, certain salts and minerals, which support their existence. It is like food and fuel to their energies. They would not be able to live in other lakes in the East, for example.

Do they purify the water?

Not only that, but they also energize it to such a degree that most of the lakes worldwide receive energy from those various lochs.

I have been there. Those lochs have a very different shade of green to most lakes.

They do, predominantly because of the Universal energies they contain. The molecules within them have a different refractive index to other water bodies worldwide.

Is that why Scotch whiskey is the best in the world? (Much laughter)

You are absolutely correct! Absolutely correct.

Walt Disney must have been very connected, considering the way he creatively portrayed all these beautiful creatures. He literally brought them to our awareness.

Yes, dear friend. Most creative geniuses are highly connected. Though this has been discussed in the past, it bears repetition here.

Tolkien's vivid "Lord of the Rings" series describes an actual realm, very much in existence, but in a different dimension of Planet Earth. The author was able to tap into it, and interpret it for you, thereby joining the two realms energetically.

In contrast to this, the "Harry Potter" series was not based on an alternate realm already in existence. J.K. Rowling was its God, its divine Architect and its Creator.

It is NOW in existence, in a new dimension, actually thought-created by all of you, who empowered it by reading the books and watching the films. You are co-creators and manifestors of this realm. Yes, it actually exists now.

What of the Ramayana and the Mahabharata?

They are like our first example. They existed in a different realm, and were energetically 'leaked' into this realm as a teaching tool. Their energies are also now interconnected with your realm.

We now wish to speak of one more aspect before we end. And yes, we will continue this topic next week.

There are other energies, even more powerful than those of the Phoenix and the Unicorn, which exists on Planet Earth in high-vibrational form. These are Energy Imprints of Past Civilizations.

Atlantis, for example, has left a very strong energy imprint on Earth. This is like a dormant energetic seed, waiting to germinate again.

Does it still exist?

Its crystalline energies and energetic imprint still exist, as do its ruins, which will eventually be discovered. But the energy imprint that it has so strongly left behind will give earth, at a future date, when it is again at a high level of energetic refinement, the opportunity to re-birth this magnificent civilization.

Is this imprint its DNA?

It includes both physical and energetic aspects of the civilization. Atlantis' DNA is safely stored in its crystalline mountains at the bottom of the ocean. But it has also stored there its unique vibrations, or its 'signature tune'.

Many of us feel a strong connection with Atlantis. What does this mean?

You are tapping into its signature tune, and recollecting your various existences there. In effect, a 'strong pull' means that you are connecting to its DNA and signature tune, right now, in this reality; and at the same time you are connecting with your concurrent and simultaneous existences there, in other timelines.

Like Atlantis, there are thousands of energetic imprints that are going to re-surface at the appropriate moment in time and earth's evolution. You have exciting times ahead!

We leave you now, dear friends.

BLESSINGS, JOY, LOVE AND LIGHT FROM THE ST. GERMAIN.

(Sohrab Shifts energies)

Did you think I would not wish you in person? (Indicating two group members who were celebrating their birthdays that day) Blessings from the Meher!
