AWAKENING THE COLLECTIVE CONSCIOUSNESS

COSMIC DUST

COSMIC WIND

DECEMBER 2014: A PERIOD OF ENERGETIC REST AND RECOUPARATION

(Prior to the meeting, there was a group discussion about women's rights, the repeated suppression of certain kinds of women worldwide, and the atrocities perpetrated on women during the recent past.)

SAI KA PRANAM! GREETINGS FROM THE COSMIC ILLUMINATOR!

This discussion was deliberately provoked for two reasons.

At a practical, Earthly level, we wanted you to get annoyed, irritated, indignant and even angry. To feel passionately about women's rights and feminine empowerment, so that you are spurred on to do something about it, rather than just sit back and complain. Find ways during the upcoming year to empower the self and others as well.

At the spiritual level, today is the 27th of November, 2014. Not only does the day total 9; but also the entire date, month and year, when taken collectively (27.11.2014). Now, many of you have studied numerology, and are already aware of the significance of this powerful number. Let us add another attribute to it: the number 9 helps you connect more fully and fluidly with Earth's collective consciousness. It acts as a bridge; adding your thoughts, feelings, desires and intent to the collective.

Today's discussing has therefore helped influence the collective consciousness, and has pushed it to a new level of indignation. Yes, indignation. This way, others worldwide can also pick up on this, and start making the necessary adjustments in their lives. You added the necessary fuel to the process.

Blessings!

GREETINGS FROM THE GERMAIN.

Today, we would like to introduce you to two new concepts; ones you will not find in books or on the net. You may not fully understand them today, but their significance will be slowly revealed to you over the course of the next year.

The first, Cosmic Dust, is comprised of tiny particles of Universal consciousness, which are now beginning to flow freely throughout the Universe.

Consciousness has always permeated the entire cosmos, but Cosmic Dust holds little particles of consciousness in the form of semi-matter. Hence the term 'dust'. It has matter at its core or nucleus: not matter in Earth terms, but a slightly denser vibration than its surrounding frequencies.

These are particles of consciousness released by beings, Universe-wide. Let us help you understand this with an example.

Take the Mother Theresa. Her whole focus and consuming passion was service to the poor, sick and underprivileged. Because she contained these energies to a very high degree, she emitted cosmic dust which contained frequencies urging the Universe to follow suit.

As she began to release this, it spread worldwide, and then into the cosmos itself. This then began to attract to itself other particles of cosmic dust; those released by Earthly and Universal beings whose mission was similar.

On earth, there is a Mother Theresa working with the poor and underprivileged. In another corner of the Universe, there is another like her: perhaps a magnificent scientist, working to serve an entire solar system. But the two have the same core vibration.

So these two particles of cosmic dust recognize in each other their compatibility, and merge to form a more complex version of their individuated selves. Now these two find others like them, and keep merging, one into the other into the other; forming very intricate 12-dimensional energetic structures. These eventually get so complex that they evolve into a brand new sacred geometrical symbol; one that has never before existed.

These complex structures are now beginning to float free throughout the Universe. And because they are comprised of so many like-minded frequencies from different parts of the cosmos, they can interact with almost every being in the Universe. This happens because, deep within their structure, there is possibly an element of energy belonging to every society in existence, and through this, they reach those individuals.

These complex collectives of Cosmic Dust are the new ‘super-computers’ of the Universe. They transmit Universal knowledge, wisdom and experience freely to anyone who desires to access it.

These structures cannot yet be invited into the human body. But they can be summoned by you, and accessed like an external hard-drive, where you can literally have them around you and plug them into your physical structure.

The most appropriate point of contact for these structures is the nape of the neck, not the crown chakra. It is this area that will be the most receptive to the external hard-drive.

Dear friends, this is only being introduced to you today. At a later date, we will teach you how to ‘plug in’ to these structures, to instantly receive very high levels of energies, frequencies, wisdom and knowledge.

Can we use them for healing?

Yes. Initially you will be taught how to use them for the self alone. After you are relatively familiar with the procedure, you will be given permission to use them for any external aspect you desire. Not just healing, but also for a business project, or wisdom and knowledge. As you familiarize yourselves with them, you will be able to access different hard-drives for the needs of the moment. One may be exclusive for healing, and another for higher wisdom, and so on.

Do these float through the Universe randomly, or do they come from the sun-stream, or from an area in deep space?

These structures are relatively random; but remember that nothing in the Universe is ever really random. Though they are ‘floating free’ in the Universe, they respond to the call given out from the higher frequencies of a planet or a Universal society. Right now, for example, Earth has called for a cluster of those which will help all her inhabitants expand their personal consciousness, those which will help beings see and appreciate ‘the bigger picture’, those which will help overall tolerance and acceptance, those which will push science and technology forward, and those necessary for overall healing. Others of course exist, and individuals will be able to summon any they desire.

Dear friends, you are still not ready to connect with them. We will inform you when the time is right. (Smiling) Many in this room have already tried to access them, but the correct ‘fit’ will not happen just yet. We will shortly take you through a connection process, and help you understand how to work with them.

Now, let us speak of the second aspect: Cosmic Wind. This has no bearing on the movement of air. This is the heart-song of every planetary body and being in existence.

Each of you has a unique vibration: no one else in the entire Universe shares it. For simplicity sake, let us describe this as variations on the theme of the OM.

Now, each of you has a unique song, which in turn contributes to the unique song of the Earth; as her music is a combination of her frequencies coupled with all of yours. Imagine the billions of variations of the OM, all coming together to create an unimaginably complex symphony that is Earthsong.

This Earthsong can actually be heard in deep space. Yes, heard with the external ear.

I can occasionally hear it even now!

Yes, dear friend, some are attuned to hearing it even here, but most cannot yet do so.

So, were you to be able to go into deep space and be helmet-free, you would hear it.

Now, multiply this: imagine each planet, asteroid, star, sun and other cosmic bodies uniting with all the societies in existence; all coming together to create the song of the Universe. This is cosmic wind.

Cosmic wind contains a history of all its parts. Earthsong, for example, contains within itself, in a binary code, everything that has happened on earth since its creation. It contains the moods, feelings, thoughts, knowledge, wisdom, understanding, and growth of every individual human, animal, plant, insect, and mineral that has ever existed on Earth. Imagine the complexity of the coding, the symphony.

This cosmic wind, which has always flowed freely throughout the Universe, is now beginning to intensify. This is causing Earth to shift from the 3rd to the 5th dimension.

The song is not only getting louder, but also more complex. This symphony is attracting to itself new energies from different planets, star systems and Universal societies; those which are either on par with Earth, or slightly higher in frequency. This, in turn, urges Planet Earth forward.

You may now begin to tune into Cosmic Wind. To do this, you have to be relaxed, in a meditative state, with relatively silent surroundings. Then demand to hear Earthsong.

At first you will only be able to hear it, in brief snatches, with the inner ear. But as you familiarize yourselves with this process, you may even hear it audibly at times.

This is yet another form of self-upgrade. By doing this, you are acclimatizing your cellular structure to this new, upgraded Earthsong. You are bringing the cells into sync with all frequencies on Planet Earth.

Were you able to tune into it completely and totally (which you never will be able to do, while in Human form), you would be so in tune with all of her aspects that you would never be able to contract a disease, because this would be part of your song.

Though you would also never be able to go out of balance, every element of imbalance would be a part of your structure. So much so, that you would not need to experience it.

So, complete merger with Earthsong would make you supreme creators of existence, as well as super-human beings; but it would also rob you of the human experience.

However, you are being urged further along the path towards this perfection. Why not be the best you can be, and undergo only that which you actually need to experience?

So start playing with Earthsong. Do not try to decode it; just allow it to become a part of you.

When El had worked on my grid, she had said that Cosmic Wind was a part of my structure. I did not fully understand this.

Yes, dear friend, there are those on planet Earth who have had so many Universal experiences that this Cosmic wind is already an inherent part of your structure. It is part of your soul's blueprint. You are now being urged to align your human form with this cosmic wind, which is already a part of you. You will later be able to help others as well in this process. This, by the way, is a marriage with Pheromones.

Will the song be the same for all? Will be all hear the same song?

No you will not. It is unique and individual to each. And you would never be able to reproduce what you hear, due to its complexity. On earth, your vocal chords and your ear only recognize 7 notes. Cosmic Wind is comprised of trillions of notes and frequencies, colours and vibrations.

So we just connect with the intent?

Yes, do just that, and then demand to start hearing it. And eventually it will become an inner song that will play at all times.

So we have to do this consciously?

Yes, even though it is already a part of your higher structure. It is now time to bring it, with your intent, into the physical and conscious parts of the self.

We have given you enough today, to start with. We will give you more information over time.

Dear friends, many of you are puzzled today, and are wondering why this has just be shared with you. We assure you that this will get clear over time. Let us take you there, step by step.

BLESSINGS FROM THE GERMAIN.

(Sohrab shifts energies)

The month of December 2014 could be used very beneficially by you; wherein you truly become selfish.

(Startled sounds from the group) You misinterpret our meaning. We mean ‘taking care of the self’; becoming self-ish.

Use this month to take care of the self. Examine those areas in which you desire to change, and do so in an instant, from that moment onwards. No long-term work.

If you need time and space away from a person or a situation, please attempt to give yourselves that gift.

Please give yourself a holiday. If your earthly commitments do not permit this physically, then give yourselves an ‘inner holiday’. Go about your work, but with an inner sense of detachment, peace and exuberance. Be on internal vacation.

Many, during this month, are going to energetically plateau. They will use this as a rest period, before they once again use the start of the next year to leap forward. Do not stimulate your energies at this time; let them rest.

This has no bearing on your physical activities. You may go about your daily affairs as usual, but internally allow your energies to rest, recuperate, and re-fuel. Get ready for the joyous tumult that will surely follow during 2015.

JOY, LOVE, LIGHT AND THE EMBRACE OF THE HIGH LORD MITREYA.
