AN EXERCISE OF CONNECTION

ABSTRACT ENERGIES

WORLDWIDE TRANSFORMATION

Greetings!

We would like all of you to take a moment and connect with a loved one in spirit. Please choose a loved friend or relative; not a Master energy. You could even choose a pet. This is a gift you are being given today: open up and sense their presence with you. (Pause)

Feel their warmth, love and support. (Pause)

Allow them to show you a visual of themselves, in a form that pleases both you and them. Do not get confused by this: a person who may have passed over in old age may reveal himself in a younger, more vibrant form. Allow it to happen. (Pause)

Try and receive a message. This could come in words, thoughts or simply a physical blessing of energy: just open and receive. (Pause)

Have a mental chat. (Pause)

Ask if the person has any request of you. (Pause)

Say anything you want to the person. (Pause)

Now, invite any Master presence of your choice to be with you today. Open to these energies. (Pause)

Open your heart chakra, and do this even more intensely. (Pause)

Now send blessings to Planet Earth. (Pause)

Now bless yourselves, your family and friends, and all the names mentioned at the start of the meeting. (Pause)

And so it is, and so it is, and so it is.

During this month, while the veils between earth and the spirit realm are rarified, you are constantly going to receive 'visits' from Masters, loved ones, friends and guides. We urge you to be open to this phenomenon.

You are also, however, going to be able to do two others things. These will not just 'happen'; you must choose to do them.

It will be very easy for you to communicate with the higher souls of others on earth. If, for example, you are having an issue with a person whom you cannot easily reach, physically or verbally, use this time period to have long and intense discussions with his higher soul.

You naturally cannot command the other person's higher soul to 'make him do this for me', but you certainly can discuss the situation and ask for a speedy and amicable resolution to the problem; one that benefits the both of you.

Go ahead and query the other person's higher soul, discuss the situation in detail, and listen to any advice that higher soul has to offer you. Through this process, you will better understand the other person and his earthly way of functioning.

(The Master now singles out three people in the room and urges them specifically to do this)

Another set of energies are now available to you; ones with which we urge you to now connect. You are not very familiar with these because, as spiritualists, you have always connected with specific Master energies. You are now ready to work with abstract energies. These are widely and unconsciously used by the younger generation.

First think of any area that interests you, and then call upon its abstract flow. Let's take an example: let us say you love music. Why not call upon the abstract energy of music to flow through you? If you do so, it will help you develop a keener understanding of music. It will help your structure open to new musical notes and tones, thereby increasing your frequency. It will even help you discover the innate musicality of your soul.

You could choose to do this as a 'fun exercise'. It doesn't mean that you are going to become a musician. You are simply opening to a flow that already pleases you. A scientifically-inclined person may do the same with the flow of Universal science; a business-person may do the same to better understand the flow of business and finance, and so on.

These are as valid Master energies as those with which you are already familiar. Yes, they do not have a form or an official name; but they are indeed Master presences in a magnified form.

The younger generation intuitively connects with these. You are all aware of how easily a child of 2 or 3 can now pick up a laptop or a tablet and know exactly how to use it, without being officially taught to do so. They intuitively access the abstract energy of technology and computers; it instantly guides them. They do it intuitively; you now need to learn how to do so.

Play with this in any areas of your choice. If you are about to prepare a meal for your family, why not connect with the abstract energies of gourmet cuisine? Then observe how you cook 'differently', with more intuition and guidance. The meal will change as well: it will not only be delicious, but also contain new and upgraded energies; ones which will only benefit the family. Have fun with the process.

December 2017 is a connective and active month. But your 'password' is: have fun. Make it a month of energetic celebration. If you find yourselves 'slogging' in any area of your life, please step back and review the way you are working. You are approaching it from the wrong direction. Find a way to make it fun.

These abstract energies are going to affect you in many ways. Let's use our earlier example; that of a person who chooses to connect with the abstract energies of music. Let us also suppose that she repeatedly opens up to these energies and gets familiar with their flow.

She will then feel urged to listen to a lot of music. She may find herself exploring, and appreciating, unusual genres of music; ones she has never before chosen. She will find a new element of 'musicality' in her tone of voice, word and actions. Her very cells will imbibe musicality, and sing a different song.

When you connect with an abstract energy, as compared to a familiar Master energy, you are instinctively opening to energies of different dimensions. This process, therefore, affects every part of the current 'you' as well as aspects of the self in other time-lines, lifetimes and dimension.

A 'ricochet effect' takes place: when you raise your vibrations and energetically uplift another part of you, it does the same and not only sends energies back to you, but also to other parts of your concurrent and simultaneous selves. A complex, multi-dimensional grid starts to form between all aspects of the self in different existences.

You are now beginning to understand that working with abstract energies is far more powerful than working with a singular Master frequency. You are now ready for this.

We are certainly not suggesting that your past connection with your Masters is, in any way, invalid. Please don't 'give them up'. We are simply helping you now touch higher vibrations of their own frequencies.

An example: a Shiva devotee now needs to ask the self, "What does Shiva mean to me"? And if Shiva means 'power' to you, then connect with the abstract energies of power. In doing so, you are going deeper into the Shiv frequencies, experiencing those, as well as the power element of many other Masters. You are now learning to open to myriad Master energies at the same time. You are going beyond the need for a form, name and individuation.

These abstract energies will help you get in touch with different aspects of the self, and bring them to the surface. You will then get to acknowledge and appreciate who you really are, and offer others the opportunity to do the same. All of this teaches you to own your Mastery.

Let us now have your questions.

May we connect to more than one 'abstract energy' at a time?

Indeed you may; but initially, do so one-at-a-time. As you progress further, you will find they are, actually, all one!

I find that sometimes when we experiment with new spiritual concepts, new obstacles and blocks arise in our lives. Why is this so?

They do, on occasion: simply to give you opportunities to test yourself and see whether or not you have mastered the concept. But if you work on what we have just described, your life can only open out. Focusing on multi-dimensionality can only create the same around you.

I've been working on the abstract energies of colour for a while now. I get the sense that I am not only reaching a collective of our Master energies, but also other collective energies not known to Planet Earth.

You are absolutely correct. These abstract energies are very difficult for us to describe to you; the human brain needs form, definition and resonance to grasp a concept. They are actually the frequencies of millions of Master energies, some known and others unknown, which contribute to the creation of these abstractions.

Let's try and put this in earth terms: imagine if you had never, ever been to a concert. We could describe to you the role of individual musicians in an orchestra; we could describe their instruments, and even tell you that each musician contributes his or her own skill to create a symphony. But how could we describe the sheer bliss or vibration of the music they create together? It simply has to be experienced to be understood.

The abstract energies of colour, therefore, include millions of Masters' understanding, awareness and perspective of colour. To touch this, you can only open to vastness.

Thank you! I even know that these energies weren't on earth even 15 days ago!

Planet Earth has made a massive energetic shift exactly seven and a half days ago. In this shift, she opened up an energetic rift in time and space and has welcomed, into her core, energies that she has never before held. These frequencies continue to flood in, and Planet Earth is using them to create a new core-level energy center.

These energies have not yet been 'released' by her. She will begin this process at the beginning of 2018, thereby initiating worldwide transformation.

Exactly how they are going to affect her kingdoms is not yet known. This is because they will combine and 'react' to each person's individual energies. They are energies of great intensity and awareness. They will 'react' to your frequencies and guide you accordingly. But more of this at a future date.

Is Mother Earth herself releasing to make room for these fresh energies?

Indeed, she is. And the newer energies will also not tolerate the old ones.

Friends, you have no concept of the worldwide transformation that lies ahead of you. Some of you will tune into it, whereas the average person will think that there is 'no particular difference'; he will remain clueless. This could be equated to coming out of major organ-replacement surgery and not realizing that anything untoward has taken place.

Every single human is going to have various energetic transplants. Shifts will take place; ones that greatly affect the physical, mental and emotional bodies. Behavioural patterns will change. Some will be obvious; others will go by unnoticed. But expect to create a brand new YOU during the course of 2018.

BLESSINGS FROM THE ABSTRACT ENERGY OF CONSCIOUSNESS.
